CABINET RESIGNS AS CZECHS SHOUT 'GIVE US ARMS!'

Ministers Quit In Favor of National Government While 80,000 Clamor For Chance To Fight; Factories Close In 'Day of Mourning.'

Europe's Crisis at Glance

PRAGUE—Premier Milan Hodza's cabinet resigns, General Sirovy boomed as new premier amid rising demands for military dictatorship.

GODESBERG—Premier Chamberlain sees Hitler for second time, reported ready to demand peace gestures from Nazis, who say Hitler may increase own demands.

LONDON—Former Premier Earl Baldwin makes surprise call on king.

PARIS—Premier Daladier faces revolt in cabinet against French-British peace plan.

BUDAPEST—Hungary demands same treatment for Hungarian minorities in Czechoslovakia as Sudeten Germans may get.

EGER—Czechoslovak forces begin retiring from Sudetenland. German "free corps" marches in. One instance of border fighting reported.

BUCHAREST—Fears expressed Rumania may be next in line of German expansion.

BULLETIN

PRAGUE — (UP) — President Eduard Benes announced today that a new cabinet had been formed to succeed the government of Premier Milan Hodza, which resigned as a result of the Sudeten crisis.

(By United Press)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia—Czechoslovakia's cabinet resigned today in favor of a national government, including army chieftains, while 80,000 workers, men and women, boys and girls, tramped the main streets of Prague, singing the national anthem and shouting:

"Give us arms! Give us arms!"

Premier Milan Hodza appealed to President Eduard Benes to accept the cabinet's resignation at once and to form an emergency one representing all elements of the national life including the army.

Announcement of the new government was expected within a few hours.

Gen. Jan Sirovy, chief inspector of the army, who appears to be the choice of most of the demonstrators to head a dictatorship, broadcast a message urging the people to remain calm and support the army and the government in the work awaiting them.

Ivan Berer, minister of justice, also pleaded in a broadcast through loudspeakers in the downtown streets for the Czechs and Slovaks to maintain peace.

The nation's leaders had surrendered—not to Germany, but to their former friends and allies—because the alternative was to doom the country to utter destruction.

BUDAPEST: Hitler Casting Eye Toward Rumania, Yugoslavia

BUDAPEST —(AP)— Hungarian demands for a slice of Czechoslovakia's territory increased today, while reports from Rumania and Yugoslavia indicated Adolf Hitler already was directing his attention to influence in these two countries.

In mass demonstrations throughout Budapest last night, Hungarians of all political faiths joined in demands that the government give them an immediate order to march into Czechoslovakia unless she cedes to Hungary regions where 700,000 Magyars live.

"Let's march now," and "down with the Czechs" were cries frequently heard.

A spokesman of the Hungarian foreign office said Hungary could not accept Czechoslovakia's surrender of the Sudeten German territory to Hitler as a final solution of the minorities issue.

Hungarian Nazis, who took part in the Budapest demonstrations, asked through their leaders that the government of Premier Bela Imredi resign, that their leader, Major Ferenc Szalasi, be released from jail and that a Nazi government be established in Hungary "to meet the demand of the hour."

Meanwhile, there were several indications that illegal Nazi propaganda had been spread recently among the 450,000 German-speaking residents of Yugoslavia, especially in the province of Slovenia which, after the World war, was carved from the Austro-Hungarian empire.

Numerous German Nazi leaders in Yugoslavia were arrested because of their propaganda for union with Germany after Austria's annexation to the Reich last March.

In the Rumanian province of Transylvania, some 235,000 of Rumania's 700,000 German-speaking residents were said to be generally in favor of close economic and political ties with Germany.

GODESBERG: Chamberlain and Hitler Meet To Seal Czech Fate

GODESBERG, Germany—(AP)—Adolf Hitler and Prime Minister Chamberlain met today for the second time in a week to seal their agreement for assuring Europe's peace by redrawing the map of Czechoslovakia.

The British prime minister arrived at the Hotel Dreesen, the reichsfuehrer's headquarters, at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. EST), and was received at the entrance by Hitler himself

Together the two statesmen, followed by their suites, proceeded to the conference room on the second floor and the fateful conference, on which the fate of at least one European state depends, began at once.

The British prime minister reached the conference scene after a 20-minute ferry trip across the Rhine from his own hotel at Petersberg.

A black-uniformed drum corps beat a salute and blackshirt elite guards presented arms with bayonets fixed as Chamberlain left his hotel. He had arrived two hours earlier, having flown from London to Cologne and motored the rest of the way.

Nazi salutes greeted him even as he descended the hotel's grand stairway. There officials, guests and uniformed guards shouted "Heil!" with outstretched arms.

Chamberlain smiled warmly and hurried down a long length of velvet carpet to a waiting open automobile. Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, followed behind him, chewing his cigar.

Calls for First Bids on School Program

BOARD OKAYS PLANS, HIRES 3 ARCHITECTS

Asks Estimates on $25,000 Shop Addition to High School Building.

BIDS ON BONDS HELD UP

Await Election Certification Before Offering $550,000 Issue for Sale.

Losing no time in getting the $1,000,000 school building program under way, the Mansfield board of education late yesterday employed architects for the projects; approved preliminary plans, and asked for bids on the $25,000 shop addition at Senior high school.

Although a $550,000 bond issue to provide Mansfield's share of the funds for the projects passed by a 68.5 per cent majority at a special election Tuesday, 20 disputed ballots today held up the request for bids on the bonds.

Meets Again Monday.

The school board must wait for a certification from the board of elections, showing that the ballots either have been counted or thrown out, before it can advertise for bids. Certification is expected within the next few days, and the school board is scheduled to meet Monday night to approve a resolution asking for bids on the entire amount of bonds.

Architects' contracts for the three construction projects under the million dollar program were awarded yesterday to Althouse and Jones for the Johnny Appleseed junior high school; Vernon Redding and Associates for the John Simpson junior high school, and Charles Conklin for the Senior high school addition and improvements to elementary buildings.

Get 6 Per Cent Fees.

The architects will receive 6 per cent of the total cost of construction and equipment for each project. Estimates on the two new junior high schools are $450,000 each, and $100,000 for the senior high school addition and modernizing of the older buildings.

If the architects are placed in charge of buying and installing equipment in the new buildings—a point which has not been decided—they will receive their commission on almost the entire $1,000,000 cost of the program. Their fees

STILL SUMMER

Weather Gets Head Start But Fall Arrives Tomorrow.

You may be stoking the furnace and going to work in winter clothing, but it's still summer, the weatherman reminded a shivering public today.

The mercury got a head start on the fall season, but autumn won't arrive officially until noon Friday. That's when the sun passes the half-way mark on its way south and the night and day are of equal length.

After tomorrow the nights will grow longer until Dec. 21, the first day of winter. Then the days will begin to gain back what they lost during the summer and fall.

While he has missed it every day this week, the weatherman still predicts it will be fair and warmer tomorrow. The temperature in Mansfield this morning was 44, just two degrees warmer than yesterday, and there was a quarter of an inch of rain yesterday and last night.

Train Wrecked by Washout in Eastern Storm

Death toll in the New England hurricane reaches 243 as six states survey the destruction caused by the tropical storm. Millions of dollars of property damage was wrought by the storm, by bridge washouts and by fires. Photo shows how a bridge washout near Winchendon, Mass., wrecked the Montreal express train. Several were seriously injured in the wreck.

BRANDS C. O. P. 'BOSS-RIDDEN'

Sawyer, Bulkley Open State Dem Convention Davey Ordered 'Boycotted.'

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio Democrats assailed their Republican opponents today as "boss-ridden" and reactionary in a field day of oratory before the party's biennial platform-building convention.

Absent from the convention were Gov. Martin L. Davey, defeated for renomination, and his aids, whom he ordered to "boycott" the meeting.

The Republican program, said U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley in an address prepared for the afternoon session, means virtually "a return to the very conditions which culminated in the panic of 1929."

Keynoting on state issues, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Charles Sawyer, declared his foe, John W. Bricker, was dominated by Ed Schorr, Republican chairman, adding in his formal speech:

"There has never been within our history such quintescence of bossism as has been exhibited by Mr. Bricker's boss. . . . There is

It's "Afraid to Marry," and the author is Helen Welshimer, who may be new to some News-Journal readers, but who has a wide reputation as a writer.

Start reading it with tomorrow's opening installment and you'll stay right on through the finish. You'll like Judy Rogers, Ronald Birrell and all the others you'll meet.

ISSUE CARRIES

Ashland OK's $165,000 Bond Issue by 93 Per Cent Vote.

ASHLAND—By the huge margin of 93 per cent of all the votes cast, Ashland voters yesterday approved a $165,000 bond issue for the construction of a sewage disposal plant and additional sanitary sewer lines.

The vote was 1,919 for the bond issue and 129 against it.

In two of the city's precincts, only one negative vote was cast on the proposal, which calls for a PWA grant of $135,000. The grant has already been authorized.

In Montgomery township, a bond issue for $55,000 for a new centralized school passed by the narrow margin of five votes, 164 to 80.

Both issues required a 65 per cent majority for passage.

Rail Committee Says Strike Threat Blocks Its Plans.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The threatened strike of 900,000 rail employes today halted the deliberations of President Roosevelt's newly-appointed committee to draft a plan to rehabilitate the ailing railroad industry.

WOMAN DIES AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Los Angeles Man, Husband of Victim, Critically Hurt at Crossing Near Crestline.

Mrs. Zelma Stien, 30, of Los Angeles, Calif., was dead today, Richland county's 17th traffic victim of the year, and the sixth to be killed as the result of an automobile-train collision.

Mrs. Stien met death instantly when an automobile driven by her husband, Samuel, 30, was struck by the doubleheader locomotives of a westbound passenger train at the Pennsylvania grade crossing on U. S. route 30N, one mile east of Crestline at 12:43 p. m. yesterday.

Stien is in Crestline Emergency hospital with a possible fracture of the skull. Physicians said he is not expected to live.

It was the second grade crossing accident in Richland county within seven hours yesterday. Earlier, Mrs. A. D. Thompson, R. D. 3, Shelby, was seriously injured when her car was struck by a locomotive at the Pennsylvania

STORK STOPS A FREIGHT TRAIN

Gateman Halts Engine to Let Doctor, Patient Pass.

CHICAGO — (INS) — The stork flagged down a freight train today.

The train was close to a crossing and the gates were being lowered as a man jumped out of a blockaded automobile and rushed up to the watchman.

"I'm a doctor," he shouted, "there's a woman in my car who is going to have a baby and must get to the hospital in a hurry. Let us through."

The gateman stopped the train and the car sped ahead.

MONEY MYSTERY

Man Picks Up Scattered $400, Another Robs Him.

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Police sought with little hope today to find out where $400 in bills came from and where it went after John Oliver, 38, reported finding it scattered along the Youngstown-Akron road near Lake Milton.

Oliver said he had no more than picked it up when an autoist drove up with a gun and said "that's my money," took it and drove away. Oliver failed to get the license number.

HOMES SMASHED, BOATS WRECKED BY FIERCE GALE

Hundreds Remain Unaccounted For as Tropical Hurricane Roars Over Coast; Property Loss Runs Into Millions; Fires Add Peril.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Roosevelt today issued verbal orders to all government agencies, including the army, navy and coast guard, to extend every aid possible to relieve sufferers in the New England flood zone.

(By Associated Press)

At least 243 persons lay dead today in the twisted ruins of a tropical hurricane that struck the North Atlantic Seaboard with devastating force.

The loss from smashed homes, wrecked boats, crippled communication and transportation lines and other property damage ran into the millions.

Fears increased that the death toll would mount steadily as hundreds of persons remained unaccounted for, both at sea and on shore.

Fire and flood added to the terror of thousands left homeless by the storm, the worst to hit the northeast coast in a century.

After hours of silence concerning the fate of Cape Cod inhabitants, the coast guard reported it had received word eight persons perished near Buzzards bay and six near Woods Hole.

Anxiety grew hourly over the fate of 52 persons who were aboard two boats which put out from Bridgeport, Conn., in the path of the storm. The missing vessels were the fishing boat "Ocean View," which sank last night with a crew of 23, two of whom are known to be dead. A ferry boat bound for Port Jefferson, Long Island, with 20 passengers and nine crew members, was unreported.

Swirling up from the south, the hurricane swept in from the sea late yesterday, smashing shipping and shore resorts with waves lashed to tidal power, and roared on into Canada.

The 100-mile-an-hour gale dealt its most tragic blows along Long Island's fashionable south shore, where at least 18 persons were dead and a hundred missing, and in flood-hit Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. It left its mark also on New Jersey, Vermont and New Hampshire.

The storm flooded hundreds of miles of rich farm lands, ripped out bridges, railroads and highways, demolished buildings, sank boats, destroyed livestock, tore down telephone and light wires and left scores of communities isolated in chaos and fear.

NEW LONDON: Use Dynamite To Save City From Ravaging Fire

NEW LONDON, Conn.— (INS) — Firemen began dynamiting buildings early today in the path of a conflagration which already has taken a toll estimated at $3,000,000.

Save for the flames, New London has been in darkness throughout the night and National Guardsmen sent by Gov. Wilbur Cross patrol the streets with bayoneted rifles.

For hours the city was cut off even from telephone communication.

Three or four hundred refugees from the burning area crowded hospitals, a number of them with cuts or bruises from broken glass and falling bricks and spars.

There were whole families who fled with their children, picking up what household effects they could snatch.

At an early hour this morning officials said ten blocks had fallen below the flames.

The fire is a freak outgrowth of the miniature hurricane that swept into New England from the southland. It has confronted New London with the greatest crisis in its history.

According to best available reports, the fire started when the 75-mile gale hurled the coast guard Barkentine Marcelas, a training ship ashore off Bank street.

The Barkentine's galley ignited a nearby wharf and the flames were roaring along a whole row of buildings before firemen, battling through flooded streets, could begin an effective attack.

In desperate straits, the firefighters asked Gen. William Ladd, commandant of the Connecticut National Guard, for permission to start dynamiting structures toward which the flames were eating.

"Unless this is checked the whole city may be wiped out," fire department spokesmen told General Ladd.

NEW YORK: Summer Colonies Demolished by Terrific Storms

NEW YORK—New York City was isolated from many of its suburbs and surrounded by desolation today after a hurricane and tidal wave.

Long Island, to the east, was strewn from one end to the other with wreckage. Whole summer colonies of homes, hotels and boardwalks, were demolished.

Towns, populated mostly by city commuters, were without lights, telephones or drinking water.

Train service was paralyzed, roads blocked by timbers and fallen trees.

In New Jersey, to the south, and in upstate New York, the destruction was less severe but more widespread.

New York City itself had been on the western fringe of the severe winds. The center of the hurricane, with winds of almost 90-mile velocity swirling around a small vacuum core, passed inland, northbound from the tropics, 50 miles east of here last yesterday.

New York City proper suffered no casualties, however. Many were stranded in town throughout the night, unable to reach their suburban homes due to the closing of roads and stoppage of Long Island trains.

Incessant Roar, Odor of Powder Tells You Police Marksmen Are Hard At It

Officers From All Parts of State Turn Armory Into Shootin' Shop.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Then — load, ready on the right, ready on the left—gong! You've guessed it: Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

But that was only 10 shots at slow fire with a minute for each one. There's more banging away—10 shots at timed fire with 4 seconds allowed for each shot and then 10 at rapid fire, with 2 seconds permitted for each.

If your ears can stand the incessant roar—and your nostrils the pungent odor of powder, you're equal to the venture.

It's down at the shootin' shop at the armory on Ashland road where nearly 300 police officers from all parts of the state are participating in the fourth annual matches sponsored by the Ohio Brotherhood of Police Officers.

Every contestant flaunts his trusty .38 as he steps to the firing line. They aren't foolin' either when they level their side arms at those four black bullseyes 25 yards down the range. They mean business.

With revolvers and pistols they bang away for those three-foot gold and silver trophies that are in the custody of Range Executive Harry F. Wentz until the matches are over.

And these officers of the law, city, county and state police, industrial and railroad officers, all believe in taking no chances.

No pistol or revolver is loaded

Fete Bride-Elect With Bridge Party Thursday Night

Among the interesting pre-nuptial news of this week was the party last night given in honor of Miss Juanita Holloway by Mrs. E. G. Bechtel and her daughter, Mary Ellen, at the Bechtel home, 271½ West Fourth street. There were 12 guests present for the linen shower.

Bridge was played during the evening with prizes being awarded to Miss Jane Cunningham, Mrs. W. H. Bowie and Miss Mary Jane Bellore.

Luncheon was served at a table decorated in a silver and white color scheme. The hostesses presented a gift of hammered chromium.

Miss Holloway, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Seyler, 537 West Fourth street, will become the bride of Delwin Witman on Oct. 1.

SHARPSHOOTERS HARD AT WORK

Crack Officers From All Parts of State Turn Armory Into Shootin' Shop.

until they step to the firing line.

The muzzle of the gun is always kept pointed in the direction of the target.

When not on the firing line the cylinder is kept open.

And last of all, when the gun is not in use it is kept in the holster or a box.

Marksmanship is a very complicated and serious business with these men whose job is to protect the lives and property of others and there's no "horse play" on the range.

While Tom Hardy of Newark, the timekeeper, sits at his desk behind the firing line and gives the signal for the firing with a yank at a gong, on the other side of the range the scorekeeper, C. L. Lewis of the Mansfield division of the B. & O. railroad, checks the targets.

The scores go to the range executive who posts them in three separate classes on charts behind the line.

There's class A for those who shoot 236 out of a possible 300, class B for officers posting a score of 146 to 235 and Class C for those making a score of 20 to 145.

There are gold and silver trophies for the winners in each division as well as medals and plaques for all posting a score of 250 or better.

Yesterday, the opening day of the matches, the high score was posted by Capt. J. W. Shumaker of the Pennsylvania police at Pittsburgh who turned in a 269.

Last year's first place winner, Sergt. M. J. Massey of the Cleveland police department, was tied for second place with Sergt. D. S. Benson of the Pennsylvania police at Akron, and William H. Lux, Indian Hill ranger at Maderia. All made 260 out of the possible 300.

SOLVES RIDDLE

Pedestrian Uses Skunk To Get Through Traffic.

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—K. A. Granger has hit upon a sure-fire method of getting through street crowds. He takes Miss Violet walking, and Miss Violet is a pet skunk. The animal has been "deodorized," according to Granger, but people don't know that so they never hesitate to give passageway to the prettily-beribboned Miss Violet and her "escort."

5,000 LETTERS FROM CITY LAND IN POSTAL 'LIMBO' ANNUALLY

Did you know that an average of 5,000 letters "die" in Mansfield every year?

They do—and because some persons address an envelope with the right street and the wrong city, or write illegibly, or send messages to friends in care of general delivery after the addressee has left town, the missives find their way into the Mansfield "dead" letter office.

Many of these letters contain money, too, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger says. They usually come through the general delivery department where they wait to be claimed by the traveling friend of the sender.

Letters of this nature are held for a year waiting call. At the end of that period if they are still unclaimed, they are forwarded to the postoffice department in Washington.

Other unclaimed letters which cannot be returned to the sender are held a minimum of five days before they are destroyed.

The most frequent error that leads the missives to the "dead" letter office, Homberger says, is an incorrect address. Some, he explained, are bills that the addressee doesn't want anyway; others are sent to persons who have died, and still others are in such illegible hand that they just cannot be deciphered.

But all in all, the dead letter business in Mansfield is getting to be a fairly good-sized job that could be eliminated and save the postoffice department a great deal of expense if the sender would take a little more care when he addresses a letter, Homberger contends.

Book of the Week

"PUBLIC PLUNDER," by David Loth (Carrick & Evans: $3).

One of the best recipes for beginning intelligently a winter that promises to be pretty dangerous would be a careful reading of David Loth's new book, "Public Plunder." This book will show its readers exactly how precarious are the foundations upon which our own insecurity rests. It will show as well how these precarious features have been with us always—more nearly permanent than the structure which rests upon them.

Mr. Loth tells the story of graft in the United States. This story begins with the arrival of one Governor Argyll in 1617, as representative of the Virginia company, which itself was as shady as many of those grandiose ventures which blew up after the sad events of 1929. He brings the story down to yesterday, including (and it is excellent reading) the amazing exploits of the Harding crew in Washington.

This will probably impress readers in two ways. It is history as long as the events chronicled are outside our memories. It becomes legerdemain when this later period is reached. For then, by a simple flick of his wrist, Mr. Loth causes events we have read about and participated in to change color, or at least appear in a new light.

Those solemn holding company investigations, for example, are described as if they were as classic examples of graft as the maneuvers of the spoilers in Grant's time. And readers may find a new—and sickening—picture in Mr. Loth's accounts of tax refunds under Secretary Mellon, of the curious deals in Colombia by a certain oil company, of power companies and the favors they have received.

For this reader the only questionable section of the book is the last page. Admittedly the spectacle of government pouring money into private pockets is sickening not the less so because it has continued so long. But Mr. Loth makes the mistake of writing that "the true solution of the problem is to overthrow the economy of profit for one of use."

This is only one solution or a part of one. Meanwhile he sees us marching either toward complete domination of government by business, or toward revolution when maintenance of the status quo has forced revolution upon us.

ONE TO A PIE!

Apples From This Golden Delicious Tree Are Really Giants.

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—It takes just one apple to make an apple pie—if the apple comes from the Golden Delicious tree in Mrs. Laura Willis' back yard.

The late Mr. Willis planted a seed in the back yard in 1930, to see if he couldn't raise some fruit as good as the one he had bought. Surprisingly, since Texas is definitely not apple country, the seed sprouted and blossomed every spring. This year came the first crop, and it is believed the unusual size is caused by the fact that three-quarters of the tree's normal yield was killed off by a late freeze, leaving only 50 to benefit from the tree's vigor.

Greenberg Six Short of Mark

Detroit Slugger Has Eleven Games in Which to Set Home Run Record.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The most alluring situation in the baseball world today wasn't the fact that the New York Yankees have lost six straight or that the Pittsburgh Pirates were winning the National league pennant in a hotel lobby but Hank Greenberg's heroic attempt to dethrone Babe Ruth as the Sultan of Swat.

With 54 homers in 143 games, Greenberg was all even with Ruth's record-breaking schedule in 1927 when he set the major league standard of 60—a mark most baseball men agreed never would be topped. Greenberg must hit seven homers in 11 games to set a new record of 61.

Eight This Month.

Ruth clouted six homers in seven games from Sept. 21 through Sept. 30. During September, Ruth hit 17 homers. Greenberg has hit eight this month.

In connection with Greenberg's challenge to Ruth's record, it is interesting to note that many believe the Detroit slugger hits a ball harder than the Bambino did. Harry Heilman, former Tiger outfielder who won four American league batting titles, says that a ball leaving Greenberg's bat travels faster than balls did off the Babe's mace.

Greenberg hit No. 54 yesterday with two men on base off Randall Gumpert in the first game of a doubleheader. He drove in six runs as the Tigers won, 8-6. They also won the nightcap, 3-0, an abbreviated five-inning affair in which Boots Poffenberger allowed only three hits.

The Yanks' let-down continued as they dropped their sixth in a row to the White Sox, 5-2. Lefty Gomez couldn't even stop the Yanks' dizzy decline with a five-hit game.

Poles Out No. 47.

Jimmy Foxx hit his 47th homer as the Red Sox beat the Browns, 8-4. Fritz Ostermueller, with relief from Bob Grove, won his 12th game.

Paul Dean hurled a seven-hit shutout as the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Boston Bees, 4-0, in the only National league game.

YESTERDAY'S HERO — Paul Dean, who won his second straight victory in his comeback campaign, after spending the season in the Texas league, by blanking the Bees.

N. C. O. Clubs Face Stiff Assignments.

TEAMS in the N. C. O. conference will hold off the start of their championship season another week as they meet non-league foes this week.

All of the clubs meet strong foes, and the results of this week's engagements are likely to determine the major conference threats.

Shelby, which turned in a magnificent performance to whip Norwalk in the opener, is host to Willard Friday night at Skiles field. This game will bring the coaching brothers, Bill and Dave Query of Shelby and Willard, respectively, together again, and the Whippets' strategist is favored to triumph. Willard was walloped by Bucyrus last week.

Another Friday night neighborhood battle which promises plenty of action takes Crestline to Galion, where Coach Johnny Burnison is attempting to develop a team capable of defending the conference title successfully.

The Orangemen showed promise in their rout of Mt. Gilead, but should find Crestline a tougher test, with Ganni and Frey offering the Galion defense plenty of trouble.

Ashland, victorious over Loudonville in its debut, goes to Norwalk Friday, and this meeting will offer the experts a chance to compare the A's strength with Shelby's. Bucyrus invades Fostoria.

Mt. Vernon and Marion will appear in Saturday games. The Yellow Jackets go to Newark, and Marion invades Delaware.

McKECHNIE HOPES REDS ARE HOT FOR PIRATES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Hope springs eternal even in a rainstorm, especially if you're a baseball manager. That was true of Pilot Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds today as he commented:

"Our big hope is for the seven games we have with the Pirates this week-end at Pittsburgh and the following week at Crosley field."

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1—and it's not a drug, not a medicine!

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Greenskeeping Chiefs To Have Their Inning.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Now that all the hot-shot golfers have decided their state and national championships for 1938, the boys who got the courses ready for the tournaments are going to have their inning.

The Greenskeeping Superintendents Association of America will hold its first national championship—a 36-hole medal play event—at the Hartville Congress Lake Country club, half-way between Akron and Canton, Oct. 3.

SEEK GAME HERE

The Avondale Theaters of Columbus seek a football game in Mansfield. Write to John W. Greene, 879 Campbell avenue, Columbus.

BUCKS DRAW CROWD

Nearly 1,500,000 persons have seen Ohio State gridders in action since 1933.

HE'S 'LITTLE FOOTSIE'

Wearer of size 12 shoes, Jim Benton of the Cleveland Rams is known as 'little footsie'.

Bright Future

National women's golf tournament in Chicago produces a prodigy, 17-year-old Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal. Miss Hicks never played golf until last September, and since then she has starred in four Pacific coast tournaments.

Please, Mr. Weatherman, Give Netters a Break.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Twenty-four hours of favorable dry weather will be necessary to get the West Side Tennis club's lawn courts in condition for continuation of the national singles tennis championships, it was announced today by Edward B. Moss, secretary of the U. S. L. T. A. The three semi-final matches postponed daily since Saturday, now are scheduled for Friday.

Former Tygers Start Against Flyers Friday

SPRINGFIELD — Two former Mansfield High School grid athletes are slated to start for Wittenberg college when the Lutherans open their 1938 football season Friday night against the University of Dayton at Dayton.

Coach T. W. Stobbs has selected Leroy Frederick, senior guard, and Ed Chatlain, sophomore end, to start against the Flyers. Chatlain, rangy, six-footer, earned the right to be selected because of his outstanding work on the defense in intra-squad scrimmages. He is one of three sophomores who is slated to start for the Lutherans.

The Lutherans boast of a squad of 35 players, one of the biggest turnouts during the past several seasons.

After meeting the Flyers, the Cardinal and Cream outfit tackles Ohio Northern, Oct. 1, at Ada, and then will open their home season by meeting the powerful Carnegie Tech team at Springfield, Oct. 8.

Small Ashland College Club Opens Schedule Friday Night

ASHLAND—Two of the smallest college football squads in Ohio will meet on the Ashland college field Friday night when the Ashland college Eagles meet Heidelberg in the opening game of the local college season. The game is scheduled for 8 p. m.

The Eagles, reduced to 16 by a series of misfortunes including injuries, grades and failure of some of the squad members to return to school, will nevertheless go ahead with the opening game and may continue through the season unless a decision to the contrary is reached by the Ashland athletic committee this week.

Ted Turney's Heidelberg squad is composed of only 25, which is worrying Turney considerably, but which looks like a sizeable team to the Ashlanders.

Meetings held this week with the Ohio conference officials resulted in the officials urging Ashland to continue through the season. A basketball team which shows promise of being a leader in the Ohio conference this winter is an added spur for the college to continue as a conference member regardless of the present size of the varsity grid team.

Virge Scobey, star end, will be able to play the latter part of the grid season, although a broken hand received in practice last week has eliminated him for the first few games. Others who have suffered injuries are also expected to get back into play within a short time, but not in time for Friday night's game.

Tygers Brush Up Running Game for Massillon Tilt

REALIZING it is possible for a fast, aggressive line to strip the gears of any passing machine, no matter how strongly it is built, Mentor Russ Murphy is cleaning off a few pet ground plays for use in Saturday's collision with the Massillon champions of Ohio at Stadium field.

In the inaugural with Akron West last week, the Mansfield high gridders showed that they are skillful with their passes, and Murphy, naturally, is depending a lot on this department in the classic coming up Saturday.

But the Tyger tactician will not be unprepared for the worst. Should Massillon break up the Mansfield passes, the Tygers will be prepared to concentrate on their ground game.

Although the Tygers failed to score from the ground on running plays against the Cowboys, the Men of Murphy showed indications of power on the ground.

Inside tackle plays were particularly effective against West, and the Tygers might have scored not once but several times against West from the ground had penalties not been inflicted so frequently near the goal line.

Murphy has not revealed what tactics will be employed in the third meeting of the modern series with Massillon. Evidently, Massillon's defensive setup will determine the Tygers' mode of attack.

On the defense, Murphy and his Tygers can expect anything. The Stark county Tigers showed a diversified attack against McKeesport with George Slusser the key man.

The Tygers will complete their heavy work for the game today, with a light signal drill on schedule Friday.

Butler Opens Friday

Bulldogs Meet Bellville in Game Heading County Daylight Program.

FRIDAY will be a big day over in Butler when Coach Bob Burgett sends his new edition of the Bulldogs into action for the first time this season.

Butler takes on anything but an easy foe in its inaugural, too. Coach Royd Hodges' Bellville powerhouse supplies the opposition for the Butlerites, and anything but a tame meeting usually results when these two old rivals collide.

Just how strong Butler stacks up this year remains to be seen. Burgett, making his debut as head coach there, has 11 lettermen, and so far the club has looked promising in practice.

Bellville's one-sided triumph over Centerburg last week gave Butler an idea what it can expect Friday.

The Hodgemen displayed more power than any recent Bellville team last week, with Balliett and Hamilton running the Centerburg line ragged.

Burgett will probably start a backfield consisting of Kenny Miller, Wendall Ward, Bob Arnold and Frank McFarland. The probable line: Floyd McFarland, Bob Boals, Marion Larribee, Dick Bowman, Bob Kinkle, Leonard Burkubile and Harold Hall.

In the only other Class B game scheduled in the county Friday, Madison is host to New London in a night tussle at the Rams' field at 8 p. m.

Mt. Gilead and Loudonville, which forms the Mid-State league this year with Madison and Bellville, are idle this week.

TOURNEY POSTPONED

SCARSDALE, N. Y.—(U.P.)—The $13,500 Westchester open golf tournament, postponed because of rain yesterday, will start tomorrow with 80 players scheduled to play their first 18 holes of the 108-hole marathon.

'Juniors' Develop Material

Setup at Massillon Provides High School With Flow of Tried Platers.

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

YEAR in and year out, Massillon high school is represented on the gridiron by powerful, well-trained touchdown organizations which are practically unbeatable. Massillon has been recognized as the state football champion three years in a row, and promises to be a strong contender for the throne again this fall.

What is the secret of the football success at Massillon high school?

There may be several arguments for this marked supremacy, but from this corner it looks like a well devised system of training in junior high schools is the real reason.

Football is taught students who care to learn the fundamentals of the game from their junior high school years right on into high school, and the number which aspires to become future Tigers is not alarming because of the immense interest in the sport in the city.

Massillon has three junior high schools, and each one is represented by a football team playing a regular schedule. The tilts the junior high youngsters play provide game experience, and there is no better way to learn this game than in actual combat.

Take the current Massillon team which engages our Tygers next Saturday, for instance. Virtually every member of the team is a product of the junior high system.

The backfield is a Lorain Andrews junior high school backfield in its entirety. All four of the backs played together at one time or another in junior high.

This is an advantage that few schools in Ohio can match. This is especially true of Mansfield, where we have two junior highs but no football teams at the schools.

The first chance Coach Russ Murphy is offered a look at new players in when they are sophomores. A few have reported at Tyger practices as freshmen, but the number is limited.

Brown Keeps Eye On Junior Highs.

COACH PAUL BROWN of Massillon does not get his players until they are sophomores, either, but he has a pretty good idea of the type of material coming his way because of the junior high teams which he watches with a fatherly eye, as you might imagine.

There is no criticism of the Massillon system. It is operated above board in every respect, we are certain, and we merely mention these facts as answers to questions pointed at the domination of the Massillon on the grid.

BOB FELLER SEEKS 16TH WIN AGAINST TIGERMEN

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Young Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians sought his 16th victory of the year today as he took the mound for the Tribe in the first game of a four-game series against Detroit. Cleveland lost a half game yesterday in the fight with Boston for second place as the Red Sox beat St. Louis while the Indians' contest with Washington was rained out. Boston now leads by one and one-half games.

SENIOR HIGH BOWLERS OPEN SKED NEXT WEEK

The Mansfield Senior high school bowling league will open its 1938-39 season at the Meder alleys Thursday, Sept 29, it was announced today by Secretary Jack R. Schwartz.

The league this year should be considerably stronger than last season, Schwartz said. Twelve teams have been organized. Plans are being made to bowl high school teams of other cities.

SWEEPS CAGE SERIES

EDMONTON, Alta—(Canadian Press)—The Edmonton grads finished their 44th successful defense of the Underwood international women's basketball challenge trophy by defeating the Canton, Ohio, Engravers, 68-32, last night to sweep the three-out-of-five series without a loss.

Marino to Appear At Mecca Parlor

Frank Marino of Akron, nationally known billiard artist, will appear in an exhibition at the Mecca Billiard parlor, 27 East Fourth street, at 9 p. m. Friday. As a feature of the exhibition, Marino will meet Lyman (Lambie) Norton, Mansfield cue star, in a 50-ball match.

The exhibition will include various types of shots. Marino will show that it is possible to pocket 15 balls in one shot. Another stunt will be to shoot 15 balls into a side pocket without the cue ball touching a rail. The exhibition is open to the public.

Giant Meets Giant-Killer

Dorothy Traung and Patty Berg Match Strokes Today.

WILMETTE, Ill.—(U.P.)—A giant meets a giant-killer today and out of that wild, quarter-final scrabble will emerge the lower bracket favorites for the Women's National Amateur Golf crown.

The giant is husky Dorothy Traung of San Francisco and the other of course, is red-haired Patty Berg, the Minneapolis wizard, whose deadly irons have given her the greatest record in golf for 1938.

It's the hottest match of the day and the victor likely will be the final round opponent of Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, the defending champion from Chapel Hill, N. C.

Mrs. Page meets Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Ft. Worth, Tex., and Peggy Graham, Hollywood Cal., plays Mrs. E. R. Hury of Dallas, Tex., in the upper bracket quarter finals. Marion Miley, former western derby champion from Lexington, Ky., meets Marian McDougall of Portland, Ore., in the other lower bracket match.

Both Patty and Mrs. Page had scares yesterday. After winning her second round match easily from Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., 4 and 3, Patty started badly against 20-year-old Eva Shorb of Canton, Ohio, and was four down at the end of nine holes. She picked up three straight with a par and two birdies coming in, evened the match with a par on the 15th and clinched it with another par on the 17th where Miss Shorb's drive was wide of the green.

MILWAUKEE, ST. PAUL VIE IN FINAL GAME TONIGHT

ST. PAUL—(AP)—Kansas City's opponent in the American association final playoff series will be selected here tonight, barring rain or a tie game.

Returning to their home lot trailing Milwaukee's Brewers by a game in the semi-final playoff series, St. Paul hammered Buck Barrow for a 9 to 0 victory last night to even up the series in which they once were on the short end of a 3 to 1 count.

Zuchegno Sure To Win Berth

Dover Halfback Sparkles in Ohio Workouts.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.)—Sophomore Al Zuchengo, the 167-pound midnight express from Dover, held the spotlight at Ohio stadium today after his promotion to the varsity fullback post.

The speedy, underslung sophomore celebrated his elevation to the red team backfield with a sparkling exhibition of fast, shifty ball carrying Wednesday climaxed by a 40-yard touchdown run in the first scrimmage of the week.

Although the dark-complexioned Zuchengo does not boast the weight or experience of the other fullback aspirants, he has taken the eye of Coach Francis Schmidt because of his speed, a fundamental ingredient of Schmidt's open-style offense. The Dover youth also displays a fiery spirit that has caught the favor of onlookers.

While he may be forced to give way before the greater experience of the veteran Johnny Rabb insofar as a starting post is concerned, the midnight express should see considerable service in the Bucks' tough opening struggle against Indiana.

Gip Miller Succeeds Corcoran as Coach

GIP MILLER, who has been associated with semi-pro football in this city for many years, has been named coach of the Kallmerten & Baer eleven, Business Manager John Villella announced today.

Miller succeeds Brownie Corcoran, former Mt. Vernon high school star, who resigned to accept a position in another city, Villella said.

Miller will take charge of the team today at the practice session scheduled at the Fairground, and said today that he expected to have the club in fine shape for the opener with the Detroit Pi Rho Phi team at League park Sunday.

Legionnaires to Try to Cut Ontario String.

Manager Dewey Durant's American Legion baseball club will close its season next Sunday at Ontario. The Ontario club has won 16 straight games, and included among its victims are a number of Mansfield clubs.

Durant did not announce whom he would start on the mound against Ontario. He will have Don Dudley and Harold Geiger available.

OILS CLOSE SEASON

The Whitney Oils baseball team of Lexington will close its season Sunday with a double-header with Johnsville and Butler at Lexington. The Castor brothers and Shaffer will hurl for the Oils.

STOCK PRICES FALTER AFTER 3-DAY RUN-UP

Traders Mark Time to Await Result of Meeting Between Hitler, Chamberlain.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Caution got the upperhand in Wall street again today and the stock market retreated a few steps after a three-day run-up on the return of peace hopes.

Mostly accounting for the mark-time attitude, it appeared, was a desire to await the results of the second meeting between Chancellor Hitler and Prime Minister Chamberlain.

Cautious waiting became the watchword all around on trading fronts. Recovery also faded in bonds and commodities traced narrow orbits, with wheat still going counter to the trend in securities.

Down fractions to more than 2 points at one time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, American Can, Kennecott Copper, American Telephone, New York Central, Westinghouse, Loew's, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Rubber preferred.

Emphasized in some quarters was the probability the arms race in preparation for possible large-scale war would go on, perhaps at an accelerated pace.

Traders who steered by chart theories were disposed to shift to the selling side and take profits around the opening because the list, during its three-day advance, had recovered approximately half the losses suffered in the recent selling waves on fear the Czech-Nazi dispute would precipitate war.

CABINET QUITS WHILE CZECHS CALL FOR ARMS

Ministers Resign in Favor of National Government; 80,000 Shout Defiance.

tion. The people had not surrendered and they clamored for the chance to fight the world.

They called for the army, and for an army government, to lead them. It could only be death.

March All Night.

Throughout the night, groups of people had marched back and forth, stopping on occasion to shout defiance to the world.

At 7 a. m., the workers began pouring into the streets.

Yesterday they were going to work. Today they were out to show that though their government had surrendered—the people had not.

The demonstrations spread throughout the country.

Employers declared a day of mourning, and shut their plants. Factories which had been turning out guns, airplanes, rifles at top speed, ready for war, were shut.

In Prague, firemen were called out to aid soldiers and policemen as the crowds pressed around the palace of President Benes, who had fought for the formation of a Czech state in the World war, and was the chief aid of Jan Masaryk, the father of the country.

"Give us arms! Give us arms!" the crowds shouted. "Let us fight! Long live the army! We want an army government!"

It will be the job of the prospective government to form a "second Czechoslovakia," as people already called it, one whose frontiers would not be open to further attack—such as the diplomatic attacks which the Polish and Hungarian governments already had opened. The Poles only last night took occasion to ask formally the same treatment for their minority which Britain and France had forced the government to give to Germany's.

A new foreign policy, a new economic structure, a new national spirit already were talked of. The Czechs had fought for centuries against stronger enemies, and they were ready to fight again.

French Cabinet Revolt Threatened.

PARIS—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier was faced today with a threatened revolt in his cabinet against the French-British peace plan which won from Czechoslovakia an agreement to surrender Sudetenland to Adolf Hitler.

Rapid developments last night caused some observers to believe the cabinet might break up at any moment as a result of pressure Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet exerted on France's little central European ally.

The names of nine of the 18 cabinet members were mentioned as more or less resolved to take action in protest.

One thing which might head off a cabinet breakup was a growing conviction among the French that all was not going to be smooth sailing in the conference between British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Adolf Hitler at Godesberg.

Hitler to Demand Benes Resignation?

BERLIN —(AP)— The controlled German press indicated today that the resignation of President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia was to be one of the demands Reichsfuehrer Hitler was presenting to Prime Minister Chamberlain in their meeting at Godesberg.

There were intimations the British prime minister would find that the proposals for meeting Hitler's demands, which Britain and France compelled the Prague government to accept, no longer would meet the situation.

Prague accepted, but too late," said the Lokal Anzeiger, evidently inspired.

"Benes, we are watching you," the noonday newspaper Am Wittag observed in an editorial in heavy type. Referring to a reported plan to establish a new sovie' republic in eastern Europe, which it said "can not pass unheeded," the editorial continued:

"These are shadows of coming events cast upon Godesberg. Who will blame us if despite the great importance of the Godesberg meeting we are unable to divert our attention from Prague and our Sudeten co-nationals."

MAE FORMS OWN FILM COMPANY

West To Be Starred In Four Films Each Year.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Mae West won't have to worry about getting a job now; she's formed her own movie production company.

Mae West Empire Pictures Co., James Timony, Mae's business manager said today, was incorporated with Louis R. Lurie of Sacramento, as president. Mae is a vice president of the $5,000,000 corporation.

Timony said the firm would make four films a year, two of them starring Mae, and that the first would have Mae as "Catherine The Great."

MONEY...IN A HURRY

We have made loans of popular amounts in less than an hour's time. Your car and your signature are the only security required.

If your car is not entirely paid for, we increase your loan to pay off the balance and give you enough extra cash to take care of all your present needs . . . new clothes, and other expenses.

Besides all this "speed" financing we like to show you just how much a loan may reduce your monthly outgo with more of your income for your own good use.

Refer to Good Housekeeping, Sept. issue. Article, "Money in a Hurry."

ENTERS CATTLE

Raemelton to Take 18 Prize Guernseys to U. S. Show.

Eighteen purebred Guernsey cattle, some of which have won prizes at state fairs throughout the middle west, will be entered in the National Dairy show at Columbus Oct. 8-15 by the Raemelton farms, near Mansfield.

Nearly 1,000 head of the finest cattle in the United States and Canada will be exhibited at the show, competing for $15,200 in cash prizes.

In connection with the dairy show, the national 4-H club contests will be held at Ohio State university, with 500 boys and girls from 40 states participating.

A contest for amateur musicians will be a part of the program, and prizes amounting to $2,500 will be awarded.

If some men let their hair go without care as long as their suits, they would be sent to Toledo.

DEMOCRATS IN SESSION TODAY

Delegation of 50 Represents County at Convention in Columbus.

More than 50 representatives of the Democratic organizations in Richland county planned to go to Columbus today for opening sessions of the state Democratic convention.

Included in the county delegation were Atty. John C. O'Donnell, executive committee chairman; G. A. Baer, central committee chairman; members of the Dolly Madison club, Young Democratic club, and candidates for county offices

Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor, and Senator Robert Bulkley were scheduled to speak this afternoon. James A Farley, national Democratic chairman, will be the principal speaker at tonight's session.

Miss Mary K. Newcomer, Mansfield, member of the executive committee of the Ohio Young Democratic club, is helping to arrange for a dance sponsored by the state club tonight at the Neil House.

Convention sessions will end Friday and the Ohio Federation of Democratic Women will conduct a meeting Saturday morning.

WAR MAIL COSTLY

MENA, Ark.—(U.P.)—Postal service between here and Spain's battle fronts is slow and expensive. A letter written by Robert M. Pike, who is with the 67th division of the Loyalists forces, was four months in reaching Hugh Gore. The letter carried 82 cents worth of stamps on it.

Victory Smile

James H. Fay who defeated Representative John J. O'Connor for the Democratic nomination from New York's 16th district, is shown above in a "victory smile." Fay won the support of President Roosevelt who opposed O'Connor, chairman of the house powerful rules committee, because of his opposition to several administration measures.

BUCYRUS—Announcement has been made here of the marriage at Louisville, Ky., Sept. 15, of Mrs. Maebelle Rogers of this city and Jay F. Wirick of Galion. The couple are living at 666 West Church street, Galion.

CHAPTER 48.

Julian explained that he had borrowed the motorcycle when, unexpectedly, he had picked up Nick Luigi's trail. With Noel riding in front, they soon reached a crossroad where there were two officers and Julian's car.

Julian made a brief explanation to the officers, then he and Noel were in his car. He told Noel that he had been watching Luigi every day since her disappearance. A squad of officers were helping him, but all of them had lost Luigi's trail time and time again. They probably never would have picked it up again had it not been for a blond young man who came up to where they were stationed on a corner near the city limits, and said that Luigi was headed toward New Orleans with the girl.

It was Ray Vincent, of course. Noel told herself. He had helped her again at a great risk. Some time she'd find him—she was sure she would.

Then Julian told her the other things that had happened leading up to her rescue. When she hadn't kept her appointment to bring the child, he had become anxious, had phoned the Garwoods with the same result as before. She had not been called to the phone. The next morning he had forced him way into the Garwood house. And the minute he had seen the woman supposed to be Fay Garwood, he knew she was an imposter. So he had called in the police to make investigations.

"And Betsy?" Noel asked eagerly.

"She's safe with friends and keeps asking for you."

"I'll go to her at once," Noel said. "She's the only person in the world who needs me. Or perhaps she doesn't now," she finished undecidedly.

"So she's the only one who needs you, is she?" Julian asked, not looking at her. Then he added that he supposed she was anxious to hear more about the Garwood affair.

Noel told him what Nick had told her about the Garwoods, or rather supposed-to-be Garwoods "Nick wasn't in on it," Noel went on, "but some of his friends were."

"It wasn't wise to let him go," Julian began.

"He saved my life at the risk of his own," Noel interrupted him. "Julian, I couldn't have done anything else."

"Of course, I understand," Julian replied. Then he told her that the police had had a full confession from the Japanese cook.

"Everything this man said," he went on, "made me realize why they were keeping you. You were valuable to them The strange coincidence of your handwriting being identical with the real Fay Garwood's solved their problem of getting money from the bank. Then when you told this woman that you did not believe Betsy was her child, they suspected you of knowing more than you did. So you were abducted to keep you from talking." He stopped a minute, then resumed, "But whether or not they actually would have succeeded in their scheme to turn all the Garwood property into cash, with you to sign the deeds and papers, is problematical."

"It was a clever plot," Noel observed.

"And it might have succeeded if it hadn't been for you. I was sure something was seriously wrong when you didn't come with the child."

Noel told him that she was going down the back stairs with the child in her arms, and had just reached the yard when she had been abducted. Then she asked about Laurie and Jimmy.

"Planning to be married soon. Laurie thinks a miracle happened. She doesn't know yet why Jimmy's mother had a change of heart. But I have my own ideas about that."

Noel smiled. Then she said earnestly, "Julian, I've found out that there aren't any truly mean people in the world. All the hateful, selfish things they do is caused by their constant fear of the future. I believe people would always be kind and good if they didn't have to worry about getting money for their needs."

"You are right," Julian agreed thoughtfully. Then he told her that Laurie had sent Noel word that she could have the job at the De Luxe. "She seemed to think you'd want it," Julian finished.

Noel flushed. "Laurie is such a darling," she said warmly. "She has taught me so much. I'm going to see that she has a beautiful wedding with orchids and all the things she would want. She loves beauty so."

"Yes, I've noticed it," Julian agreed. Then there was a sudden poignant silence. Julian broke it at last by saying: "Do you suppose this conversation will ever get around to me?"

Noel drew a quick breath. "Oh, as for you," she began brightly, "you'll be married soon to your beautiful and highly efficient Miss Chester and will live happily ever afterward. And I hope—that all your children will be doctors and trained nurses."

"Noel," Julian's voice had a queer unsteady tone, "so you read that notice in the Scimitar?"

"Oh, yes." Noel came back, determined to be nonchalant, "even a person as shallow as myself sometimes has been known to scan the papers."

Julian shook his head hopelessly. "Once again I don't know whether to kiss you or spank you."

"If you dare kiss me now —" Noel's voice was low but in deadly earnest.

To her surprise Julian turned the car. "We're going to have this out right here," he said.

They were on a country road about a mile from the city. He stopped the car under a tall elm with gracefully low-hanging branches.

"Pretty spot," Noel said lightly, "but I don't see—"

She caught a glimpse of Julian's face, saw that he looked very serious. Then she was waiting for him to speak, her heart suddenly beginning to throb high in her throat.

"Ruth Chester went entirely too far when she—when that notice was put in the paper," Julian began. "She explained it by saying that a reporter friend had been teasing her and that somehow he took it for granted that there was an engagement between us."

Noel, being a woman, now understood that it was a ruse on the part of Ruth Chester. Ruth took a chance thinking that the notice might have two effects. First, it might cause Noel to go back to her own frivolous world, secondly, Julian might let it stand.

"I never asked Ruth Chester to be my wife," Julian said passionately. "I never intended marrying her for I never wanted any girl in the world except you."

Rapture sprang into Noel's eyes, but she remained very still as Julian went on "There were times when I actually persuaded myself that I could get you out of my life and out of my heart. But all the time I knew it could never be done. Then at last I gave up trying. I knew that even if a marriage between us might have but a slight chance for success, I had to have you. I couldn't go on without you," his voice broke. Then he added. "You remember I told you I had something to tell you?"

She nodded "I remember you said it was something that would affect our friendship" Noel's voice was still slightly puzzled.

"It would have We couldn't keep on trying merely to be friends when I wanted to marry you more than anything else on earth. It wasn't a very good idea, trying to be friends, you see"

"No, it wasn't," Noel admitted smiling.

"And so now, Noel, I'm asking you if you'll marry me. Humbly. Reverently I would get down on my knees and kiss the hem of your dress—except I believe it isn't being done any more. But that's how I feel about you, dear."

"I still have a disgusting lot of money," she reminded him tenderly.

"We won't bother about that any more," Julian said with a new confidence. Then he asked whimsically, "And now, are you going to scream for help if I kiss you?"

"No, but—I shall probably cry," Noel said, a sob in her voice

Julian took her into his arms then and kissed her warmly. "I've loved you always — always," he murmured. "Even when I told you I had no intention of falling in love with you. That was purely a defense mechanism, you see, and it didn't work at all."

"But you were right," Noel said, her face sweetly serious. "I had to earn your love first. Make myself into the kind of wife you needed."

"And you have succeeded," he answered warmly. "After all, the only thing necessary was for you to find your real self, which was hidden under the artificial life you led. I sadly misjudged you."

She shook her head. "I was a completely selfish person. But I know now I could never go back to the old life—not even if I didn't have you."

"But we have each other now," he emphasized happily. "We can make all the necessary adjustments. We can share each other's lives."

"We can do better than that," she said softly. "We can merge our two worlds. I can have a real part in your work, for while you're giving medical treatment free to your charity patients and looking after their physical needs, I'll be looking after their material needs, seeing that they have food and fresh air and decent clothing—all the things so important to their well-being and contentment."

Julian was so touched for a moment he could not speak. At last he said, "That is a beautiful thought, Noel. Nothing in the world could make me happier." Then he asked: "When will you marry me, my dear? I am selfish —I want it to be tomorrow."

"Then we'll make it — tomorrow," she whispered, lifting her ardent face to his.

TURNS DOWN AID

Woman, 73, First to Refuse Pension, Says She Has Income Now.

HOUSTON, Tex.— (INS) —The state old age assistant commission just can't figure out Mrs. Miralda Loiuse Scott of Houston. She wants to be taken off the pension rolls.

Mrs. Scott explained to incredulous officials that she now has an income large enough to live on, and she'd rather let the money go to someone who needs it.

Mrs. Scott is 73 and had drawn an $18 monthly check for a year and a half.

NOTIFIES CITY $60,000 READY FOR RELIEF IF—

Examiner Says Advance Taxes Available When Matching Funds Can Be Obtained.

City officials were told today by State Examiner B. L. Lewis they can obtain $60,790 in advance allocations of beer, malt, admission and public utility taxes to pay relief bills—provided they can match that amount from their own funds.

But since the city has no funds for matching it will be forced to borrow against anticiplated collections of delinquent taxes to raise the amount, the equivalent of mortgaging anticipated receipts from two sources.

Assistant Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz said Mansfield, Madison township and Shelby, the subdivisions with the heaviest relief load, probably would make immediate use of their authority to borrow, so as to meet their mounting relief bills. The city can borrow $55,000 against probable delinquent tax collections.

City Owes $50,000.

Mansfield alone owes nearly $50,000 in relief bills and city official estimate they will need $100,000 to carry the relief burden for the rest of the year.

Figures compiled by Lewis for Richland county commissioners, show that Shelby and other county subdivisions can obtain $35,160 in state beer, admission and public tax receipts under the same plan. They also would have to borrow to match the funds.

Madison township, with the second largest relief burden in the county, could obtain $19,127 under the plan, while Shelby would have $5,111 available.

Amounts available to other districts include:

Bloominggrove township, $384; Butler township, $168; Franklin, $240; Cass, $815; Jackson, $791; Jefferson, $791; Mifflin, $599; Monroe, $408; Plymouth township, $1,271; Sharon, $1,319; Springfield, $3,191; Troy, $503; Weller, $599, and Worthington, $360.

Perry, Sandusky and Washington townships have no relief problems, and five other townships have been paying their own relief costs without help from the state. They are Butler, Franklin, Jackson, Sharon and Weller.

The report submitted today to county commissioners by Lewis shows a total of 3,998 persons on relief in the city and county, 2,533 of whom live in Mansfield.

DATE SELECTED

'Y' Campaign Starts Oct. 17; Remy to Head It.

The week of Oct. 17 was set as the annual Y. M. C. A. enrollment week at a meeting of the "Y" membership committee Wednesday noon at the Westinghouse cafeteria.

Robert Remy was appointed general chairman of the drive, and Irl Fisher was appointed as chairman of the prospect committee. Committee members, and an enrollment goal, will be named at another meeting of the committee scheduled to be held next Monday noon at the cafeteria.

Lowell Bourns, chairman of the membership committee, presided.

CHAIRMEN FOR YEAR SELECTED

Carpenter P. T. A. Names Activity Heads At Meeting.

Committee chairmen to serve during the year were appointed at a meeting of the Carpenter school Parent-Teacher association Tuesday evening.

Those appointed the Mrs. Mae Riggle, health; Miss Mildred Shively, art and music; Mrs. Earl Hammond, membership; Mrs. Earl Garrison, publications; Mrs. J. F. Morey, hospitality; Miss Helen Lorow, program and Orville Redhair, parent education.

Miss Harriet Roth was elected secretary, and Redhair treasurer of the association, to fill vacancies. Mrs. G. C. Young, membership chairman of the P. T. A. council, gave a short talk and Miss Wilson, new adult education instructor, explained her work in the Carpenter district. Joseph Drumm, president, presided.

A covered dish supper will be held in conjunction with the October meeting.

JURY RECESSED IN STATE QUIZ

Resumes Herner, Schweller Probe In Two Weeks.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The Franklin county grand jury will resume its investigation of expense accounts of two former members of the state board of control in 10 days or two weeks, Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said today.

A recess in the inquiry into the accounts of former State Senator William H. Herner of Norwalk and former State Representative Julian H. Schweller of Fort Jennings was taken by the grand jury to consider other cases.

Bartlett made no comment on the investigation other than that the jury made "definite progress."

SNOW AT SANDUSKY?

SANDUSKY—(AP)—Ohio passed its "first snow of the season" milestone today following reports of flying flakes late yesterday in Sandusky and Bellevue districts.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT LOOMS

TOLEDO — (U.P.) — A conference of management and labor representatives with the Toledo peace board brought prospects today of settling the long-standing strike at the Federal Creosoting company.

HINTS AT DODGE WILL CONTEST

Attorney Says Widow Might Fight For Greater Share.

DETROIT—(AP)—A Detroit attorney indicated today that Mrs. Laurine McDonald Dodge might contest the will in which her husband, the late Daniel G. Dodge, heir to an automobile fortune, bequeathed her $250,000 of a $10,000,000 estate.

Paul Oren, the lawyer, said the 18-year-old widow, whose 21-year-old husband died after an explosion while they were on their honeymoon, had retained him as counsel.

no Republican party in the state of Ohio today. It is Ed Schorr.

"The issues in this campaign will be drawn on one line alone: Does Ohio want to join in the thrilling adventure of fighting for good government under a governor and state officials standing with their sleeves rolled up and pledged to the task—

"Or does Ohio want to slide back into the old ways pursued by the Republican opposition in this state in years gone by?"

Davey's absence, creating a unique situation in Ohio Democratic history, resulted from the executive's feeling that the new management of the party treated him coolly, the governor's associates declared.

Sawyer did not mention his primary opponent, whom he defeated on an issue of asserted corruption in the state government, but commented:

"It is as much my duty to be loyal to the Democratic party regardless of the recent primary as it is the duty of the members of the party to be loyal regardless of their position in that contest. Any course could have no effect except to give aid and comfort to the opposition."

The Democratic nominee asserted "I have not altered by one inch my determination to fulfill" primary pledges to driving and misfeasance from the state capitol.

His assertion was regarded as possibly forecasting a platform plank sharply cricital of the Davey administration and a complete break between the Davey and Sawyer forces, especially after the governor's refusal to participate in the convention.

'Protective Aims.'

Bulkley, stalwart supporter of Roosevelt policies, declared that the New Deal was not seeking "to adopt solcialism" but rather "to protect the capitalistic system" from its own excesses of unregulated competition and asserted concentration of power and wealth in the hands of a few.

"The New Deal and New Dealers have made mistakes and may make more," he continued, "but the philosophy of the New Deal is not one of opposition to private business but on the contrary governmental help we have been discussing is absolutely necessary to the preservation of our existing business order."

The Cleveland senator asserted the 1929 "disaster" was not caused "by what our Republican opponents now complain of—excessive business regulations and excessive taxation.

"We know that it came about in no other way than by the unbridled excesses of high finance under the guise of liberty and freedom, freedom indeed for the clever and the powerful to exploit the trusting and the needy."

Asserting Robert A. Taft, Republican senatorial candidate, "accepts a limited number of New Deal measures in a limited application," Bulkley contended:

"His (Taft's) so-called constructive Republican program, after making these important concessions, goes directly back to the old principles of free and regulated competition which have proven so disastrous in other years."

150 PHYSICIANS HEAR LECTURES

Doctors Attend Second of Series Of Meetings; Two Speak.

More than 150 physicians from Northcentral Ohio counties attended the second of a series of eight postgraduate lecture sessions last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Speakers at the session, sponsored by the Ohio Medical Association, were Dr. Gerald S. Shibley, Cleveland; and Dr. Thomas P. Sharkey, Dayton. They outlined recent developments in the treatment of pneumonia and diabetes.

Dr. Charles Brown, Mansfield, was in charge of the meeting. Visiting physicians from 12 counties were guests of Mansfield physicians at a dinner preceding the lecture session.

Dr. Louis Feld, jr., Cincinnati, and Dr. Edwin J. Stedem, Columbus, will lecture at the next meeting here Oct. 5.

LUCAS STAGES HOMECOMING

Hundreds Expected to Visit Village; Contests, Dog Show Features of Fair.

With favorable weather, hundreds of persons were expected to attend homecoming activities at Lucas today as the village's three-day celebration got under way.

Displays of farm products, contests, free acts, a dog show and a ball game will be included in the program which will be presented in the streets of the village.

Entries in the farm products division will be received until tonight, while flowers and cakes will be received for display until 10 a. m. Friday.

Prizes will be awarded for the best bouquet of mixed flowers, best chocolate cake, angel food cake, best corn displays, peck of potatoes, wheat or oats, largest pumpkin, dozen eggs, and eight apples.

On the program of free acts are the Great Marlow, the Frog man, and a close friend of Ted Lewis, the band leader; Jewell, an escape artist, and "Millo the Mystic," who performs tricks of magic.

Prizes will be awarded in a husband calling contest, an old fiddler's contest, and a pie-eating contest for children.

A dog show will be another feature of the homecoming, with Richland county's champion beagle, Blackfork Ringer, entered in the show. Ringer is said to be the only male beagle from this county ever to be awarded a championship certificate by the American Kennel club.

Mansfield Jewry Prepares To Mark 'Rosh Hashanah'

Mansfield Jews will join with Jews throughout the world next week in celebrating "Rosh Hashanah," the Jewish New Year, which begins at sundown Sunday and continues until sundown Tuesday.

During the two-day celebration here, four church services will be conducted at Moose hall, North Walnut street, by Rabbi D. Rub of Tempie Emmanuel. Services are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m. Sunday; 8 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Monday, and 8 a. m. Tuesday.

Rosh Hasanah, according to the Bible, is the greatest of Jewish holidays, and begins on the first day of the month, "Tishry." It is a day of holy convocation, and also is called the "Day of Remembrance."

Rosh Hasanah is a day of the sounding of the Shofer, and is known as "the day of the blowing of the Shofer." The Shofer, a ram's horn, was sounded on many other occasions, and a special series of musical notes were set aside for the start of the new year. This sounding of Shofer on New Year served to arouse the people to their spiritual shortcomings, and to make them realize that another year had passed and a new one was beginning.

POPULATION 129,818,000

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The census bureau estimates that the population of the continental United States last Jan. 1, was 129,818,000. This is an increase of 941,000 over the Jan. 1, 1937, estimate.

$30,990 CITY PARK PROJECT OK'D BY WPA

Agency Allots $21,990, City to Furnish $8,700 for Beautification Job.

A city parks project involving the expenditure of $30,990 for the rehabilitation and beautification of the city's park system was approved today by WPA officials in Washington.

A dispatch to The News-Journal said WPA had approved an allocation of $21,990 as its contribution to the project.

City council several months ago set up an $8,700 fund as its share. General bonds in the amount of $6,000 within the 10-mill limitation allowed by law were issued and another $2,700 was appropriated from the balance of a PWA grant to be used specifically for beautfication of the grounds at the new sewage treatment plant.

Provides Jobs For 70.

The project, designed as a winter WPA program will employ 70 workers for a period of six months, Glenn Weller, city WPA engineer said.

The park rehabilitation plan which grew out of a Town Hall meeting last winter and has been backed by the parks and city beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the city's 10 garden clubs, calls for reconstruction of and additions to the city parks playgrounds.

It includes the cleaning up and beautifying the unsightly spots, building stone walks and ramps, tearing down unsightly buildings, and the installation of equipment to make the parks practical for outdoor recreation centers.

SEEK INSPECTOR

County Bee Keepers Meet Here Friday to Plan Campaign.

Richland county bee keepers and orchardists will meet at the courthouse at 8 p. m. Friday to outline a campaign to obtain a bee inspector for the county, Nicholas Blocher, Mansfeild apiarist, announced today.

Charles Reese, state apiarist, has been invited to speak at the session in the common pleas courtroom.

A committee of bee producers visited county commissioners recently to ask for the appointment of an inspector, and were told that the county has no funds to pay the salary of an inspector.

The apiarists pointed out that many Ohio counties have inspectors to aid in fighting diseases which destroy bee colonies.

CAUTION URGED, TYDINGS SAYS

U. S. Doesn't Want Rush Laws, Maryland Senator Declares.

WASHINGTON—(UNS)—The people want congress to "stop, look and listen" before rushing blindly into new and far-reaching legislative experiments, Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) said today.

He said he gained this opinion from his fight to resist an administration effort to purge him in the Democratic senatorial primary and from the experiences of other senators the White House wanted defeated.

"The country realizes that many acts with commendable objectives have developed imperfections, which imperfections, in many cases, were pointed out on the floor of congress, and amendments offered to eliminate them only to be brushed aside," said Tydings.

BEATEN WITH HAMMER

IRONTON—(UNS)—Charles Debord, 35, was in serious condition today suffering from a fractured skull and Andrew Body, 51, of nearby Sheridan, was held in the county jail charged with beating Debord on the head with a hammer during an argument.

HEARS EDITOR

C. of C. to Have 'Billy Sunday of Business' as Speaker.

Deloss Walker, associate editor of Liberty magazine, referred to in "Who's Who In America" as the "Billy Sunday of Business," will address members of the Chamber of Commerce at the first of a series of membership meetings at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The dinner meeting will mark the start of the chamber's fall activity program and is expected to be attended by more than 200 members, Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager said.

Walker, who has travelled throughout the nation and abroad studying the changing trends in civilization, will speak on "Community Building."

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1938.

There was also a time when people thought that a city couldn't have too many railroads.

As nearly as can be learned, a number of Sunday evening church services had been abandoned even before Charlie McCarthy went on the air.

It will be rather difficult for the imagination to settle down to living on $30-every-Thursday after becoming accustomed to spending a fictional $200 a month.

What Lies Beneath the Surface?

ANY idea that a European war threat is more than briefly delayed by the action of Great Britain and France in submitting to Hitler's demand for dismemberment of Czechoslovakia is not borne out by the record.

While the apparent backdown of Chamberlain and the refusal of France to join with Russia in support of their pledge to defend Czechoslovakia against aggression may have greater justification than appears on the surface, the general impression cannot be other than that this is another victory for Hitler, and it will serve to encourage this power-mad dictator to attempt further expansion of Germany into eastern Europe—with assured sanction of Mussolini and an assumed submissive attitude by Great Britain and France.

Neither Great Britain nor France wants war. No sane person or civilized nation wants war. But with such a person as Hitler loosed upon the world it may be doubted if permanent peace can be maintained.

Both Britain and France are justified in taking all reasonable steps to avoid war—but if present concessions, with the hardships they work on Czechoslovakia, accomplish nothing more than to expand Hitler's power and give him further time to perfect a war machine with which he hopes to finally dominate Europe from the Rhine to the Black Sea, it appears to be merely putting off an evil day to shortly come upon one that will be even more dreadful.

Despite all that has been printed about it, there is still something mystifying in the attitude of Great Britain in this matter—something that appears to go deeper into the situation than has thus far been revealed—for surely Hitler is not the type of man who could be expected to win a diplomatic victory from either Great Britain or France.

In any event, history is in the making, in a large way, and the day to day developments may well hold the world's interest.

Farm Relief Fails Again.

PAUL MALLON expressed the view of the most informed commentators when he wrote in a recent column: "The farm act is failing fast. That fact . . . is becoming so evident that many of Mr. Wallace's men will now concede privately they do not see how the situation can be worked out next year on the same basis."

This has been the unhappy experience of most farm acts of the past, no matter how sincerely inspired or efficiently administered. Time has again proven the old adage that "self-help is the best help," and that goes for the farmer as well as everyone else. If agriculture looks to political panaceas for permanent benefits, it will be foredoomed to disappointment. Real farm progress is coming from activities instigated and controlled by the farmers themselves.

Policeman As a Boy's Friend.

DOES sight of a policeman cause an instant's nervousness, even when you haven't been doing anything wrong? It shouldn't. A psychoanalyst would probably find that, at sometime in early childhood, your mother told you that if you didn't "mind" she would tell a policeman and he would lock you up—so that fear has stuck in your mind ever since.

To correct this wrong impression of what policemen are for, the city of Boston has enrolled a Junior Police corps, sponsored by Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty.

Fourteen hundred Boston boys between the ages of 12 and 16 are enrolled in the corps, with fifteen patrolmen assigned to instruct them in first aid, life saving, drill work and other phases of police activities.

The corps is supervised by Lieut. William J. Carey, who explains: "We are teaching these youngsters not to be afraid of policemen, but to bring their troubles to them. All kinds of police work are explained and demonstrated to them. We are instructing the boys in law and order, so that they may become better citizens."

This gives the impression of being a fine activity. It is the inclination of many boys to regard policemen as an ideal and to try to be like them.

Which makes it quite important that, both in public and private life, policemen be circumspect in their conduct, so that boys may safely follow their example in matters of law observance, strict sobriety and general good citizenship.

Explaining Mexico.

DEAN ROSCOE POUND, formerly head of the Harvard law school, back from a tour of South America and Europe, makes an illuminating statement about the Mexican situation.

"My guess is," he says, "that Mexico would give way (evidently meaning that the present regime would be overthrown) if strong pressure were applied to the central government." He adds:

> "It is a serious thing to let the Latin-American countries believe they can seize American property, but I don't believe any of them can stand much pressure from the outside, because they have so much pressure from the inside.
> "Most South American countries are absolute dictatorships, and dictators are always in need of money. In their own countries there are plenty of politicians who would like to step into their places."

This is probably the case with President Cardenas. For a time he got along very well with our government, playing the game frankly and fairly But there seems to be a strong upheaval of nationalism in Mexico, producing as usual a belligerent attitude against foreigners, and especially against this country, with which Mexico in the past has often been at loggerheads.

It may be due largely to a keen sense of inferiority, produced by the superior attitude taken by many Americans. However that may be, the feeling is probably too strong for Cardenas to oppose.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — How old is "old"?

That is an ancient chestnut raised again by President Roosevelt when he endorsed Rep. David J. Lewis of Maryland for the senate.

In advancing his proposal for revision of the supreme court, President Roosevelt referred to those members above 70 years as "elderly."

When he sailed over to the "east shore" of Maryland to aid white-haired Representative Lewis, he described him as "Well along in mature middle age." Representative Lewis, who was defeated, is 69.

The president indorsed Senator William Gibbs McAdoo of California for re-election. He is close to 75.

On the other hand, when President Roosevelt cracked down on Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina as a man who was living in the past, South Carolina, despite Smith's 74 years, thought him young enough for another six-year term in the senate.

East Is East.

SENATOR GLASS of Virginia was very much alive and very much elected when he was 77 and Senator Borah was awarded another six-year term when he was 71.

The deeper you go into the age puzzle the more complicated it becomes.

While the president was working for Davey Lewis on the east short, the electorate on the west shore was defeating Senator McAdoo. In California many Democratic voters seem to think a man is getting old at 50. That is the age when their proposed age-relief program would take effect.

That plan would entitle an unemployed man of 50 and up to a handout of scrip every Thursday. Sheridan Downey, who defeated McAdoo while advocating the age-relief program, is 52, old enough to share the benefits—if the plan is put into effect and he loses his job.

U. S. Services Vary.

THE army and navy retire their colonels, admirals and generals at 64 and the civil service pensions its help at 70. For a number of years federal district and circuit court judges have been permitted to retire at 70 on full pay and the past congress — before defeating the court revision bill—approved extending similar retirement privileges to the supreme court. Two members have taken advantage of it.

In his message accompanying the court-revision plan, President Roosevelt said that "in exceptional cases, of course, judges, like other men, retain to an advanced age full mental and physical vigor. Those not so fortunate are often unable to perceive their own infirmities."

At a later press conference he suggested that some men were "old" at 40 and others "young" at 80—a bracket then obviously designed to include Justice Brandeis. He is one of the liberalist judges on the court but was reported offended at the president's comments about elderly judges.

After all, a man probably is as old as his arches.

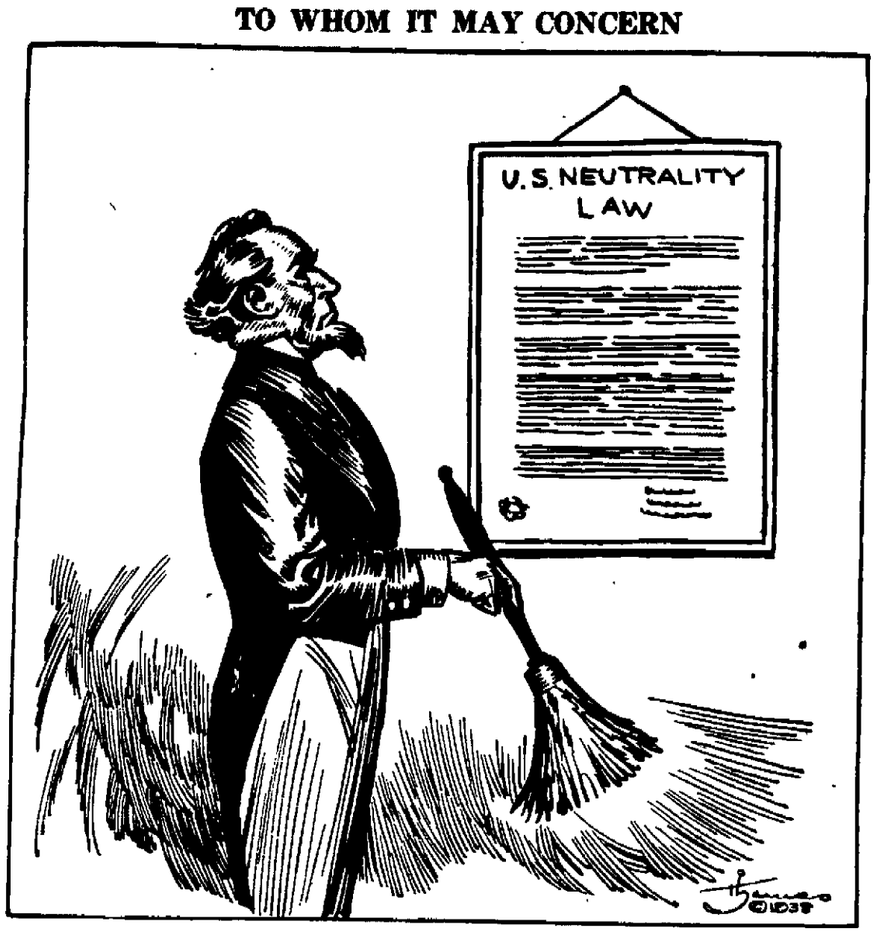
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN



The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

BEAVERS solve their home defense problem simply and neatly. They merely arrange an under-water entrance to their house, better than any moat. Humans, menaced by their own rather than another species, find no such easy solution. It begins to appear that the genus Homo can survive only in a world matrix of steel and concrete.

Quietly, swiftly, the French man the vast underground labyrinth of the Maginot Line, closing the long gap between Switzerland and Belgium; they ready it to the last sensitive push-button. A vast tide of human energy, back through the centuries, has been diverted to forts, but never has humankind been driven so far underground; never has it been lashed to such a desperate mobilization of technical brains and training for the sole purpose of national and individual survival.

And that is the story of most of Europe. Little nations which long ago renounced war and became prosperous in peaceful pursuits—the Scandinavian countries, Switzerland, The Netherlands and Belgium — are now delving and building as frantically as Germany and France. "They shall not pass!" is our last cry against encroaching doom.

THREE years ago it frequently was observed, at times by persons of specialized knowledge, that the Maginot Line had been virtually put out of business by the range and bomb-carrying capacity of the new big war planes. Flying high over the impregnable line of forts they would deal swift ruin, first to the seat of government and then to munitions depots. The war would end in a week and victory would go to the most and the best airplanes.

China and Spain have been military laboratories which have brought forth a swift and drastic revision of this view. Cities have been bombed, women and children have been killed, fires have leaped up in the wake of the planes, with black ruin everywhere and the wars have gone on. The flow of guns and munitions has continued, morale has not been shattered, forces of supply and combat have quickly reformed, and classical military tactics have been validated. Again, it is only in the last few years that anti-aircraft guns have become reasonably effective. Attacking planes must now fly so high that good marksmanship is almost impossible.

It is possibly this demonstration that war is still pretty much on the old footing which has brought about this frantic building of forts all over Continental Europe, and in England, too, instead of sole reliance on the gaudy new weapon of the air. These current seminars of death also are disclosing great advantages to the defense. And defense means impenetrable walls of concrete and steel.

FORTS and cathedrals fittingly have symbolized mankind's two major historic concerns — first to survive, second to aspire.

We, in America, like the people of all other nations, have invested our historic forts with glamor and patriotic sentiment. Much of our history could be written around them. Six of them have been set aside as public monuments. They are Fort McHenry, Baltimore, where the Star Spangled Banner still waved at dawn; Fort Pulaski, Savannah, Ga.; Forts Marion and Matanza, at St. Augustine, Fla.; Castle Pinckney, near Charleston, S. C., and Fort Wood, on Bedloe's Island.

Maine has taken over from the federal government eight of its old forts, including Fort St. George, built in 1809, at the mouth of the St. George's river; Fort Popham, on the Kennebec, and Fort Baldwin. Fort Jefferson, Fla., the "Gibraltar of America," also has been made a national monument. One of the oldest is Fort de Chartres, built in 1720 at Prairie du Rocher, Ill., by the French, against the Spanish and English.

There is the old Fort Niagara at Niagara Falls, Fort Macon, 102 years old, in Carteret county, S. C., and Fort Brown, in Texas. Someday somebody will write a fascinating book about these old American forts—as vulnerable as match boxes against the weapons of today, but serene in their tradition of deeds well done.

THE Eskimos put heaven away down in the nice, safe, warm earth and hell up in the skies, whence come the freezing winds and ice and snow. We may do likewise, unless we manage to kick up such a general all-around hell that there is no place for a heaven, not even in our dreams. Our cathedrals have gone underground on occasion, in the ages of the great catacombs. Will it happen again?

There are those who say that we built forts and cathedrals in the wrong order; that we should have built the cathedrals first and, thus aspiring, would not have needed the forts.

Ohio Anecdotes

First Alfalfa in Ohio.

Alfalfa, common in Ohio nowadays, was introduced only comparatively recently by Joseph Wing, known as the "Alfalfa King," who died on his farm near Mechanicsburg, Champaign county, in 1915, at the age of 77.

As a young man, he left his Ohio farm home to work in Utah. Here for the first time he saw the clover-like alfalfa plant.

Curious to know whether the crop, a staple one of the west, would grow in Ohio, he sent a quantity of seed home to his father. However, chickens running loose over the farm ate the seed before it could germinate.

Young King returned home and planted more seed, placing a barrel upside down over the spot. It flourished so that it grew through the top of the protective barrel. By his writing for farm journals, Wing then proceeded to popularize the plant to a marked extent.

Timely Editorial

A Mighty Army.

College, university and public and parochial school doors have opened or are ready to open to 33,000,000 students in America. More than ever before are registered in institutions of higher learning, and part of the increase, no doubt, is correctly attributed by Secretary Harold L. Ickes to the part played by the National Youth Administration aid.

But certainly not all of it is so attributable. For, it has been patent for years that state laws requiring an increase in time spent in public schools, the demands of trades and professions for greater preparation and the general banishment of illiteracy have been responsible for a steadily increasing number of those who go to school, at least to the graduation in high school.

In no other land, so far as one can recall, is there such attention paid by old and young to the getting of an education and the furtherance of literacy.—Ohio State Journal.

Digestion as a Fundamental Function

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHEN THE body is considered as a unit, we recognize four fundamental functions that it has to perform — digestion, respiration, metabolism and nervous activity.

It is an energy machine and food is its energy source and digestion supplies this. In order to form energy the food unites with oxygen, and respirations furnishes this. These combine to furnish the activities of growth and movement, which we call metabolism. And certainly our reason for existence lies in the activity of the nervous system.

All the other functions of the body are really secondary to these. Circulation of the blood simply carries the energy sources to the tissues. Excretion of waste products occurs in all engines. Reproduction of its kind is really a part of metabolism.

Digestion of food is accomplished by the action of a great number of gland secretions which mix with the food in the stomach and intestines. These chemical secretions are called hormones and they act with the greatest speed and efficiency. From the saliva, which converts starch into sugar almost instantaneously, down through the pepsin of the stomach and the hormones from the pancreas, their action is incredibly thorough. Pepsin, for instance, can convert 3,000 times its own weight of protein into peptones.

It is probable that the body developed these hormones in the course of time, as human beings used more and more of the world's products. We have in the pancreatic secretion alone hormones which will digest any kind of foodstuff on earth—tryspin for the protein or meats, steapsin for the fats, and amylopsin for the starches.

The action of these juices occurs under certain circumstances. Saliva works only in an alkaline medium, and pepsin only in an acid medium, while the pancreatic digestion occurs again in the alkaline medium of the intestines. Some people have become very worried about these things and advise that such foods should be given that will not call out the acid flow in the stomach, or will not produce alkaline digestion side by side with acid digestion.

Now even if such an arrangement could possibly be made, it would not be desirable. Nature has ways of accomplishing her purpose far better than any substitute we can made for her. The point is that the digestive glands are capable of digesting any form of food—animal, vegetable, and a lot of minerals—and if they are not interfered with or monkeyed with too much they can do their work very well.

Even when a larger part of the digestive secretion has been put out of commission, digestion goes on quite well. A man can lose a large part of his stomach, or his salivary glands, or even his pancreas, and nature compensates and allows digestion to go on just the same.

A Farmer's Diary

Out In the Cantaloupe Patch.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A WELL-BEATEN little path leads from our house to the melon patch, these days. The seeds that survived the ravages of short-tailed mice, the blight, excesive rain and autumn drought have made us a pleasant, healthful harvest.

Often when I come from the woods at noon, my feet, unbidden take the course that leads right through the patch. There happily I wander about, counting the ones that show signs of early ripening, stooping to gather two or more that have a hint of yellow between the roughened markings of the surface.

When the place that marks the line of fruit and stem grows moist and shows signs of natural separation, that melon has ripened on the vine, and is ready to use. To me, the best time to test that mellow, luscious sweetness is immediately, under the shelter of a nearby apple tree, seated on a patch of soft, matted grass.

Here I sit, and carve its soft fragrant sides with my pen knife, while pinkish juice, like rich wine, flows close after the gaping wound the knife blade makes. I remove the plump yellow seeds, and the reddish mesh that holds them fast, in orderly clusters.

I enjoy to look at that portion of the inner surface between the rows of seeds, that glistens mistily like new-formed frost, with fragile cells all gorged with juice. This evanescent beauty seems akin to the bloom on tree-ripened fruit. It means perfection.

The nights are growing long, and cooler. A sharp, crisp atmosphere prevails that promises ruthless, killing frost not far away. Then the green spheres in our melon patch will lie about like skulls upon the shriveled skeletons of vines. I will not care to linger in this little field, when frost has borne away the treasure.

Listen, World!

The Sinners' Point of View.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ONE of the hardest things we stupid humans have to learn is that the sinner is as sincere as the saint.

We have a quaint notion that rascals know they are rascals and see their deeds in their full loathsomeness—yet glory in them, nevertheless. Nothing could be further from the truth.

I have yet to see a scoundrel—and I've met a might o' them—who didn't believe in himself and the necessity for his deed.

A thief may condemn a murderer, and a murderer may loathe a kidnaper, a kidnaper may despise a forger but each criminal believes in himself with all the fervor of an outraged Sunday School teacher.

Take an example nearer home than the Big House. There's Pussyfoot Percy, the office sneak, hated by every other employe. Hated doubly. First, because he is a sneak; Second, because, by our traditional reckoning, Percy knows he is a sneak, feels the same contempt for sneaking which honest citizens feel, yet deliberately, continues his slimy activities. That's our story about Percy and we'll stick to it. But here's Percy's side of it—

A sneak? Not he! The very idea fills him with horror. Yes, he knows, some of those envious loafers have tried to pretend he was up to something. But he isn't. He's simply a loyal worker, defending the firm's welfare. And what if the Boss does give him a little extra, now and then — is gratitude any crime? They're just sore, that's what they are, those other fellows. If they were innocent, they wouldn't be so excited. But thank God, HIS conscience is clear!

There's a close-up of Pussyfoot Percy . . . and of every other offender against our moral code from Gertie the Gossip to Gyp the Gunman. To society, they appear deliberate and brazen blights but to themselves they are well-meaning and useful guardians of the common good or honest but gravely misunderstood Victims of Social Injustice.

But it's one thing, you say, to justify a tattletale. And quite another to whitewash a murderous thug. Not to the thug, it isn't! From his point of view, he's an innocuous as the village dressmaker. Only "they got him wrong—"

"Sure, I bumped off that old Funnyface, loidy—but you got me all wrong if you tink I'm one of them cold-blooded killers. A moiderer? Not me! Maybe I got my lil faults like anywun elz but killin'—that ain't my line. Why, there ain't a squarer, kinderhearted guy than me, livin'. Why, loidy—I wooden hurt a fly—hones' I wooden. Esk dá Gang, dey'll tell ya. Esk anyone. Hungry, dat's what I wuz. Jess hungry. Never planned no moider any moren you are, Loidy. Not a mean thought in me — hones'! But is it MY fault if his face connects with the front o' my rod when I'm looking around for the price uva meal? Now I esk you—wuz it MY fault, loidy?"

That, accept it or not, is the sincere defense of every lawbreaker, whatever his degree of crime. An act? In its outward details, yes. But beneath the patter and the pose there is a real and unshakable belief in himself and his own integrity. You see the menace — HE SEES THE MAN. To you he is lower than the mud BUT ONCE A MOLDING HAND REACHED DOWN INTO THAT MUD AND LIT A SPARK — This shifty-eyed, shambling felon may never have heard of Genesis but he knows that spark is there, despite all degradation. AND LOW AS HE IS, HE BELIEVES IN THE MAN HE HAS NEVER BEEN . . . AND THE FINAL, TRIUMPHANT DECENCY OF THAT MAN.

That's the sinner's point of view. And we'll never get very far in reforming sinners or protecting saints until we realize that fact. But how do I know it's true? Because I'm that way myself. AREN'T YOU?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The presence of so many Whitneys, Vanderbilts, Wideners and other first families among the owners of racing stables has led to the belief that the turf is the complete posssesion of the wealthy. Which is far from the case. The percentage of one-horse stables, operated on the traditional shoe-string, is extremely high. And many of them run their single chargers on the best tracks, too—those referred to as "the big apples."

Legalization of racing in so many states—from seven to 27 in the past decade—has increased the demand for horseflesh. Even the major tracks must find room for cheap races, and it is toward these that the modest owners point their entries. As a general thing, the type of horse groomed by these is doomed to spend all his days in small-pursed claiming events. Although it is true that some of them have been graduated into stake running. King Saxon, Unfailing and even Seabiscuit once seemed condemned to such competition, but they all became champions.

THE best recent anecdote concerning a one-horse stable grew out of the triumph of Miquelon, a 40-to-1 shot at the local Aqueduct track. Miquelon's listed owner is the trainer, Ike Pearlstein, but jockey room gossip names a musical comedy star as the true boss.

On the day of the fabulous victory, Pearlstein was aware that his horse had a chance. Unfortunately, however, he lacked the funds to profit by his knowledge. He hopefully circulated among the bettors, confiding to friends that Miquelon was "hot." With few exceptions, they spurned his "inside dope," preferring to be guided by the bookmakers' figures. Forty-to-one odds are almost conclusive evidence that the horse is a stiff.

Miquelon of course triumphed easily, and Times Square that night was filled with breastbeaters. The tip had been spread through the Broadway sector with not a wager laid. And there is nothing that saddens a horse-player so much as his failure to embrace a tip that is fulfilled by performance. Even Pearlstein, contrary to the fiction and movie version of such things, made only a scant clean-up.

ANOTHER item about a lowly stable owner further attests it as a poor man's sport. A hanger-on at one of the more popular restaurants, who seems chronically out of money, has a horse running at the local courses. Asked how he can afford to maintain a stable, meantime pleading embarrassment in the matter of his own rent, the sportsman explained:

"It costs me $100 a month to stable this horse, and by entering him I am entitled to an owner's badge of admission to all tracks. There are 26 racing days a month, hence I would have to pay $130 to get into the track. I save $30 a month as an owner, and sometimes I even win a purse with my nag."

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"On the Side of the Angels."

"On the side of the angels" is a phrase which was born in the days when Darwin, promulgating his revolutionary theories of evolution caused the world to seethe with arguments pro and con.

This expression circled the globe when Disraeli, addressing the Oxford Diocesan Conference on November 25th, 1864, asked rhetorically:

"What is the question now placed before society with the glib assurance which to me is most astonishing? That question is this: Is man an ape or an angel? I, my lord, am on the side of the angels. I repudiate with indignation and abhorrence those new-fangled theories."

Disraeli afterwards modified his views.

EASTERN STORM TOLL HITS 243; LOSS RUNS HIGH

Homes, Boats Wrecked by Terrific Gale; Floods, Fires Add to Peril.

workaday tasks to search debris for bodies of missing victims or rescue residents marooned by floods. Red Cross authorities mobilized their forces to feed and comfort hysterical refugees.

Coast guard headquarters in Washington dispatched 2,500 men and scores of cutters to the storm scene. The coast guard estimated between 500 and 700 small fishing and pleasure craft had been sunk or driven ashore.

The hurricane, which spared the Florida and southern coast as it curved northward, by a similar fluke missed New York City in its haphazard march of destruction.

Waves Batter Coast.

Waves battered the entire 100-mile length of Rhode Island, washing away hundreds of small summer cottages and beach buildings. Among them was a lighthouse that had withstood the sea's whims for 75 years.

Most forlorn of the "gold coast's" villages was West Hampton, a summer playground for New York society, where at least 140 homes were wrecked. A dozen bodies lay in the exclusive West Hampton Country club, many unidentified.

A police cordon kept spectators back from the ruins of 50 cottages, dumped into the center of the village after having been swept a quarter of a mile from their sites by monstrous waves.

Coast guardsmen reported heavy damage also at Great South Beach, where 125 cottages were destroyed. Twenty more were demolished at Camp Cheerful, retreat for crippled children.

A 30-mile area from Moriches to East Hampton was reported by Coast Guard Commander William Wolfe to be under water. He said the loss of life was "severe."

Spectators who escaped the storm's wrath told of seeing floating bodies in the ebbing tide. Rescuers said it would take days to investigate the inundated beach stretches and determine the full death toll.

Whistling northward with unabated power, the hurricane struck Connecticut, already harassed by floods, and claimed at least 22 more victims.

Rush Relief Aid.

Gov. Charles F. Hurley of Massachusetts declared a fuel and food emergency, and his council approved a $25,000 flood relief appropriation, Rep. Arthur D. Healy (D-Mass) wired an appeal to President Roosevelt and WPA administrator Harry Hopkins for all possible federal aid.

The storm paralyzed shipping in Boston harbor, stopped railroad traffic to Montreal and tied up many of the state's highways. A tugboat, sinking in the harbor, carried seven men to death.

The situation was so extreme in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island that authorities mobilized all possible forces—including the army, national guard, state health department workers and Boy Scouts—for relief work. Many towns, isolated by floods, were out of communication.

Firemen in water shoulder deep fought hours to subdue a stubborn fire that blazed through a square block of business building in New London, historic whaling port. The damage was $1,000,000.

Coast guard officials ordered a plane dispatched from New York to carry medical supplies to the stricken port.

The rising Connecticut river carried threat of further danger to residents of Hartford, where it cut a $20,000,000 ribbon of ruin in the 1936 flood. The river was expected to rise 12 feet above flood stage by midafternoon.

Killed In Debris.

Most of the state's storm victims met death under falling trees, roofs and buildings. Others drowned in Long Island Sound. Gov. Wilbur L. Cross dispatched national guardsmen to aid beleagured cities.

An exploding gas tank of 300,000 cubic feet capacity rocked the waterfront at Providence, R. I. already ravaged by high tides. Near Jamesport, R. I., a school bus carrying five or six children was reported engulfed.

The hurricane wrought extensive damage in New Jersey and the mainland of New York. Dozens of small craft along the Jersey shore were driven inland and shore bungalows ripped apart.

A section of a $1,000,000 bridge spanning the Absecon inlet separating Atlantic City and the island of Brigantine collapsed marooning 2,200 persons on the island.

Eastern New York, struck only by the "edge" of the storm, suffered from floods and blocked highways. Clearing skies gave promise of relief.

in that case would total nearly $60,000.

Architects, who met with the board yesterday, explained that 6 per cent is the usual fee for projects sponsored by PWA, which is contributing $450,000 to the program.

W. L. Althouse, one of the architects for the Johnny Appleseed building, pointed out that in addition to drawing plans for the project, the architect must keep one or two men on the job as supervisors while construction is in progress and act as an agent for the school board in its dealings with PWA officials.

"We must provide the PWA office with frequent and detailed reports of progress on the projects until the jobs are completed," he said.

Start Work Before Oct. 31.

Bids on construction of the Senior high shop addition will be opened Oct. 21, and construction must be underway by Oct. 31 to comply with the PWA requirements. The entire program must be completed by June 1, 1940.

Bidders on the high school addition must submit certified checks equal to 5 per cent of the amount of the project with their bids. Based on the estimated cost of $25,000, the deposit will be $1,250. The first advertisement for bids was published today.

Razing of the old John Simpson building on West Fourth street is expected to be under way within the next six weeks, but it had not been definitely decided today whether the razing job would be let as a separate project or included in the construction of the new building.

Supt. W. L. Miller and Althouse were in Columbus today to confer with PWA officials on the advisability of separating the razing project from the construction job so as to let the contracts independently.

Board members estimated it would require a month to demolish the John Simpson building. A part of the building's equipment will be used in the new structure.

Retired Telephone Official To Make Home In Canton

A. R Murphy, 77, of 40 Arthur avenue, former commercial superintendent at the Mansfield Telephone company, will move to Canton Monday to make his future home.

Murphy was employed at the telephone company for 30 years, retiring last May 4. He served as commercial superintendent for 20 years. Mr. Murphy was born north of Mansfield, near the present site of the steel mill, and has spent his entire life in and near the city.

Before he became associated with the telephone company, Murphy was a mail carrier. He has purchased a home in Canton and will live at 1337 Oxford avenue, N. W., near his son.

Murphy is the brother of Col. T. O. Murphy, former Mansfielder and a U. S. Army officer who died in Washington early this month. Funeral services were held for Col. Murphy, Sept. 6, in Washington, and burial was in Arlington National cemetery.

Col. Murphy was also born north of Mansfield, leaving here in 1896 to enter West Point.

Col. Murphy retired from army service about nine years ago. He last visited here with his brother early in July.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

If wives knew what widows know, more banks would be named as executors of wills.

HOLD PARISH, CIVIC RECEPTION FOR NEW MONSIGNOR NEXT WEEK

A parish and civic reception in honor of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's church and dean of the Mansfield deanery who was recently elevated to the office of domestic prelate by Pope Pius XI, will be held in St. Peter's church hall at 8 p. m. next Thursday, Sept. 29.

Investiture of Monsignor Goebel with the robes of his office along with eight other priests of the diocese upon whom the honor has been conferred, will be held at 10:30 a. m. next Wednesday at Queen of the Most Holy Rosary cathedral in Toledo with the Most Rev. Karl J. Alter, D. D., bishop of Toledo, officiating. A delegation from Mansfield will attend the ceremonies.

Thursday morning Monsignor Goebel will celebrate a solemn high mass at St. Peter's church The reception will follow in the evening.

Speakers at the reception will be Mayor Claude M. Hunter, representing the city; Judge C. H. Huston, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce: Henry G. Brunner who was mayor of the city when Monsignor Goebel came here 15 years ago; R. H. Bolin, representing the men of the parish, and Mrs. T. J. McDermott, representing the women of the parish. J. E. Kuebler will preside as chairman.

Musical selections during the evening will be presented by a St. Peter's Alumni choral group and a string ensemble.

Committee chairmen in charge of the reception are Kuebler, Robert Dalton, Mrs. McDermott, Miss Marie Hecht and Mrs. E. F. Davis.

A program in honor of Monsignor Goebel will be given by pupils of St. Peter's school Friday, Sept. 30.

SCOUTS SET UP YEAR'S PROGRAM

Area and District Leaders of Organization Announce List of Activities.

Activities for Boy Scouts of Johnny Appleseed Area during the coming year, were outlined at a meeting of area and district commissioners last night at Scout headquarters in the Elks' building.

Heading the list will be the annual Halloween parties in charge of Philip Smith, C. G. Silcott and Robert Stevenson. The annual scoutmaster's training course is scheduled to begin the second week of November. During December several Christmas events have been planned.

Mansfield scouts will hold their annual election during January to chose "officers" to "run" the city for a day during National Boy Scout week in February.

The annual Mansfield father and scout banquet is scheduled for February, to be followed by the annual spring camp period. Other events to follow will be the annual circus, camporall, Memorial Day program, and summer camp.

Nine area and local courts of honor are scheduled for the year. Area courts will be held in November, February, June and August. All will be held in Mansfield with the exception of the August court, held annually during summer camp The Mansfield courts are scheduled for November, January, March, May and August.

Floyd Dent, area scout executive, announced that two new troops are planned for Mansfield during the coming year. Membership in the area has now reached 1,050 scouts, largest in the history of the area. Previous high was 1,040 in June.

CRISIS OVER

Gets 'Emergency Call' From Woman With Corset Trouble.

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—The telephone in a local hospital buzzed. An excited feminine voice gasped:

"I'm losing my breath . . . may need a pulmotor . . . get me out quick!"

There was a half-minute pause. Then came a sigh.

"Skip it," said the voice, "I just got out of my new corset."

CAPTURE TOWN

Japanese Shock Troops Within Striking Distance of Rail Line.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Japanese shock troops captured the town of Loshan, 30 miles east of the Peiping-Hankow railway, today after a four-hour battle.

They said the victory placed them within striking distance of Sinyang, railway station 10 miles north of Hankow, and gave them control of all highways from South Honan province to China's provisional capital.

GET GOLD BARS

Bandits Rob French Train of $1,890,000 in Metal.

MARSEILLES, France—(U.P.)—Ten bandits robbed a train of 168 gold bars valued at $1,890,000 today.

The bandits attacked the Marseilles-Avignon freight train near St. Barthelemy and held the crew at revolver point. An express agent attempted to draw his gun and was wounded.

The bandits unloaded the gold, contained in express packages, from a car into their waiting trucks and escaped.

An accomplice aboard the train apparently stopped it by pulling the emergency cord at the point where his confederates were waiting.

The gold was enroute to Belgium from the African Congo.

103 MORE IDLE

Ashland Division Ohio Highway Employes Laid Off.

Lay-off of 103 employes in District No. 3 of the state highway department was announced today by Highway Director John J. Jaster, dispatches from Columbus said. District No. 3 includes Richland county. Headquarters are in Ashland.

Throughout the state, 641 men lost their jobs, the dispatch said, adding that Jaster referred to them as "seasonal" and due to the completion of summer work and curtailment of highway funds.

Two weeks ago, 283 lay-offs were announced, of which 60 were in District No. 3.

WOMAN DIES AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Los Angeles Man, Husband of Victim, Critically Hurt at Crossing Near Crestline.

crossing on Longview avenue Her condition at General hospital was still critical today.

Mrs. Stien's death brought the Richland county traffic toll for the year to 17. At this time last year 20 persons had been killed.

State Highway Patrolman L. D. Alexander said that Mrs. Stien was thrown from the automobile after the engines struck the rear of the machine and tossed it against the concrete base of a flasher signal on the west side of the crossing, demolishing the standard.

Engineers William Smith and Barney Lafferty, both of Pittsburgh, riding the right hand side of the cabs said they did not see the car until it had almost cleared the tracks They said the car approached from the east.

Alexander reported that acetylene torches had to be used to disentangle the car from the flasher post. Stien's pet dog riding in the machine also was killed.

The couple was en route from Philadelphia to their home in California.

The train which left Mansfield at 12:25 p. m. was due at Crestline at 12:44 p. m.

Alexander pointed out that the crossing, where the construction of an overpass has been discussed by Crestline city officials, was protected by flasher lights

COUNTY ONE OF 31 WITH WET AND DRY FIGHTS

Two Richland Townships and Village to Ballot on Old Issue in November.

Richland county will be one of 31 in the state with wet and dry issues in the November election, a survey showed today

Two townships and a village in this county will decide whether the sale of beer and liquor will be permitted

Springfield township, west of Mansfield; Cass township, at the northern run of the county, and the village of Shiloh in Cass township, will ballot on the dispensing of both beer and intoxicating liquors within their districts

Worthington, Bloomingglove and Franklin townships already prohibit the sale of anything but 3.2 beer, while 882 of the 1,322 townships in Ohio outside of Richland county have some form of prohibition

See 1,000 Districts Dry.

Observers in the state predict that 1,000 townships and municipalities in the state will be either partly or totally dry after the election.

And the local option voting is not all confined to rural districts and small towns. Precincts in Youngstown, Akron, Columbus and Steubenville will ballot on the sale of hard liquor, due largely, the drys assert, to the haphazard granting of liquor permits in metropolitan areas without regard to population or church and residential districts.

In a number of cities, including Mansfield, taverns are located near churches

Citing an example on Park avenue east where three churches are within a short distance of a tavern, delegates to the East Ohio United Brethren conference here two weeks ago passed a resolution asking that no liquor permits be issued to establishments within 500 yards of a church.

THEATER

IN THE closing scenes of "Zaza," Claudette Colbert sings a torch song called "Hello, My Darling." Fannie Brice, whose rendition of "My Man" is still unforgettable, spent a whole day on the set coaching the star in the tricks of putting over the number. How to walk, how to pitch her voice, all the things that Fannie spent years learning.

Exciting Romance.

The exciting romance of a racket buster with a society girl whose sister becomes innocently involved with the underworld is threaded throughout the plot of "Smashing the Rackets," featuring Chester Morris, Frances Mercer and Rita Johnson. The picture, at the Madison, chronicles the activities of a special prosecutor in a large city, as he personally leads his men in an attempt to smash the crime rings.

Football Fun.

The recent wave of medicine-show politics is kidded in the football comedy, "Hold That Co-ed," at the Ohio. John Barrymore heads the cast as a budget-bouncing, co-ed chasing governor who manages to win his elections on the gridiron of the state university. Featured with Barrymore are George Murphy, Marjorie Weaver, Joan Davis and Jack Haley. The film plays through Saturday.

"The Saint In New York."

Something new in the war of modern society against racketeers and crime is presented from a new angle in "The Saint in New York," opening at the Majestic theater Friday. Louis Hayward portrays the fiction character of the modern "Robin Hood" made famous by Leslie Charteris in the film that sees the Saint move into New York to rid the city of brazen racketeers. Jack Luden in "Phantom Gold" is the second feature.

"Paradise for Three."

A story revolving around the adventures of a millionaire who turns poor man at a famous Alps playground is unfolded in "Paradise for Three," coming to the Ritz Friday. Frank Morgan plays the millionaire and his antics lead him into some funny situations. Florence Rice and Robert Young supply the love interest. Also on the double bill program will be "Bar 20 Justice," with William Boyd.

Plays Dual Role.

Charles Bickford portrays a police officer and a gang leader in his latest film, "Gangs of New York," with Ann Dvorak, Wynne Gibson, Alan Baxter, and Johnny Morris in the supporting roles. The No. 2 attraction through Saturday at the Park theater is "What Becomes of the Children."

BOWLER LOSES

Appeals Court Dismisses Suit Against Tourney Official.

The Fifth district court of appeals yesterday dismissed a case in which Edwin L. Slagle, Ft. Wayne, Ind., sought to recover awards he contended he won in a bowling tournament sponsored in Mansfield last March by the Moose lodge.

Slagle's case was dismissed after he failed to appear before the court. A motion of his counsel for continuance of the case was denied.

In his suit against Donald D Renner, Mansfield, one of the officials of the tournament, Slagle contended he was deprived of an award and prize money he won in the tournament.

Tournament officials dropped him from first place when it was learned he had misrepresented his average when he entered the handicap events, they said.

Are You Treated Like A Dog?

IF THE DOG has served as a guinea pig for man, so has man served as a guinea pig for the dog. . . . And nowadays if you are treated like a dog, chances are you are being treated very well indeed.

So say Department of Agriculture experts.

For instance, veterinarians everywhere are using the x-ray, which was developed for man. Its use has increased considerably since automobiles began increasing the number of fractured dog bones.

A Date With the Dentist.

And take the matter of teeth. Nowadays a dog can go to a dentist to get its teeth cleaned and filled, just like a human. And it can go to a dog doctor and get its tonsils removed—by an operation similar to that perfected for man. (But appendectomies on dogs are unusual).

Vaccination against distemper (dog flu) followed vaccine treatment of humans. And general and local anesthesia are now used on dogs, following their development for man.

In the discovery of a hookworm treatment, however, the dog was the guinea pig. The Department of Agriculture found a drug effective against dog's hookworm, and it proved effective for man, too.

Doggy Hospital

The accompanying pictures give you an idea how some dogs are treated nowadays. Two of them were made at a Park avenue, New York, veterinary hospital conducted by Dr. George Cohen; the third, at a New York dog dentist's ($5 to $10 for a filling; $5 for a cleaning).

Dr Cohen's place is full of equipment, used to treat up to 800 patients a month. He'll x-ray a dog or a cat for $5 and give a C.Q. machine treatment for $3. (C.Q. stands for "cold quartz," and the treatment is used for eczema, which the veterinarian says is the most common dog ailment).

The doctor tries out all the new machines and buys those that work—bought his first x-ray machine in 1908 for $4,800.

So Dr. Morris Fishbein, of the American Medical association, seems to have been right when he remarked that prize animals sometimes get better medical treatment than humans.

This dog is ready to get a cold quartz machine treatment—for eczema—at Dr. Cohen's hospital.

WAR MEANS NEW LEASE ON LIFE FOR 22 CHINESE DESPERADOES

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI — In Shanghai's Ward Road Jail, the world's largest prison, 22 Chinese are living who would long since have been dead and buried but for the undeclared Sino-Japanese war.

The twenty-two Chinese have all been sentenced to death for crimes committed within the International Concession but execution has been delayed through the fact that Japanese invaders have occupied all Chinese territory adjacent to the settlement. Under the arrangement existing between the settlement and Chinese government authorities the executions must be carried out in Chinese territory.

Shanghai municipal police officials are now attempting to solve the jail and execution problem with a request to the Chinese government authorities in Chungking to modify the arrangement so that the men may be executed within the jail grounds.

If and when the Chinese government grants the request the police must also secure approval from the consular body, composed of consuls of the various powers, who play a dominant role in the involved administration of this international settlement in China.

Prior to the outbreak of hostilities all Chinese found guilty of major crimes in the settlement and ordered executed were — on the day set for their death—turned over to Chinese authorities. They were immediately taken to the "model prison" in Chinese territory where the execution occurred.

Japanese now occupy the "model prison" and all territory surrounding Shanghai, so that it is impossible to secure a court order or carry out the death sentence.

The twenty-two prisoners, some of whom have been awaiting death for nearly a year, were all convicted of armed robbery, murder, kidnaping or other crimes involving the death penalty under Chinese law.

SWIMS AT 70

Aged Jersey Resident Also Climbs At Mountain.

EDINBURGH, Scotland—(U.P.)—William Tait, 70, Scottish-born resident of Trenton, N. J., recently climbed Ben Nevis, highest mountain in the British Isles, and also attempted to swim Loch Linnhe, "just to show a 70-year-old can do it."

Tait has been vacationing with relatives at Nevis Cottage, Fort William, near the foot of Ben Nevis. He climbed the 4,406-foot peak on a sweltering afternoon. The last time he made the ascent was in Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee year, 1897. This time, however, he found the track up the Ben much rougher and steeper.

He attempted to swim the 4-mile wide swirling tide-race of Loch Linnhe, near Fort William, on the previous afternoon, but gave up near the opposite shore when he was stricken with a cramp.

"I swam nine miles on the Delawar river to prove a man was not too old at 60," Tait said. "But the temperature of the water here is 30 degrees lower, or I could have crossed the loch easily."

ALL JOBS LOOK FLAT AFTER HER SPANISH STAY

Girl Who Chucked Career With Lindbergh Risked Life at War Front.

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

NEW YORK—Dorothy Fontaine traded a nice, safe, clean job at the Rockefeller Institute in New York for perilous laboratory duty in a loyalist hospital at the Spanish front, and came back with only one complaint—the rats gave her the jitters.

Bombings didn't mean a thing to this slim, boyish girl with tousled, sandy hair—but the rats . .

"I'd lie in bed at night and watch them gallop over the crossbeams and pray they kept their footing"—Miss Fontaine lifted her hands in supplication as she spoke. "I guess they had had a lot of practice, though. They never did fall off."

The rats haunted Miss Fontaine's dreams all through the 14 months she spent at the Spanish front. But bombings were routine. Twice her hospital at Tarancon was struck.

Plenty of "damns" and "hells" punctuated Miss Fontaine's description of the bombings, and plenty of explanatory gestures. Thirty-four, but looking not more than 24, she was curled up cross-legged on a couch in her apartment, but shifted her position constantly.

Worked With Lindbergh.

When she went to Spain, she left behind a research career with Dr. Alexis Carrell and Colonel Charles Lindbergh, with whom she had worked on the "mechanical heart." She dumped it all overboard for a two-fold job in the war area—laboratory and pharmacy work. Here are some of the difficulties she faced:

No running water in the hospital.

Distilled water — a hospital "must"—obtained from a home-made still constructed out of two empty oil cans and a coil of copper wire.

Constant threat of an alcohol shortage.

Difficulty in securing serums and other necessities.

And daily a new flock of patients whose wounds had to be tested for infection. Smears were taken to see if they had contracted anything like tuberculosis or typhoid.

Moved Overnight.

When the evacuation hospitals were shifted to another point—that might happen overnight, Miss Fontaine found — the staff got moved as best they could.

"Once I traveled five days in a box car," she reminisced, "and never took my clothes off. Every time there was danger of bombing, we'd jump off the train and try to hide in shell holes. Meantime we'd stop the train and gather along the tracks while food was prepared over an open fire."

After 14 months of this excitement, Miss Fontaine can't quite face the idea of a nice quiet job at Rockefeller Institute — or anywhere else.

"I'll probably wait awhile before I hunt for another job," she said.

In the meantime, she's going to propagandize to have the neutrality embargo lifted. She calls it "a bunch of baloney."

One False Alarm Rung By Drunk Costs City $335

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(INS)—One false fire alarm recently cost the city of Louisville $335, according to a "cost sheet" prepared by Police Judge John Brachey.

The court's statement came during the trial of a defendant charged with drunkenness. Officers testified the man turned in the fire alarm "for fun" while "on a binge."

Brachey said the fire department run amounted to $275, the reward offered in a city ordinance was $50, and the 50 days in jail was another $50. Total—$375.

Judge Brachey sought to whittle down the cost, so he sent the defendant to the workhouse where "board and bed" costs only 20 cents a day compared to $1 daily in the jail. He saved $40, cutting the bill to $335.

The whisky the defendant consumed cost $1, but that bill was paid before the city came across the violator.

PURGE COYOTES

California Ranchers, Boys, Sportsmen, All Turn Out.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—A "mass purge" of coyotes started last November in Los Angeles county has resulted in the death of 650.

The coyotes were branded as pests because of their depredations on poultry, livestock and wild life and the county board of supervisors offered a bounty of $1 a head. School boys, ranchers and sportsmen, as well as professional trappers, participated in the countywide program.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazingly effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

After Spain---She Finds It Hard to Relax

AFTER 14 months of laboratory work in a Spanish loyalist hospital—yes, it was bombed—Dorothy Fontaine is back in the U. S. and finding it hard to relax. Here she's telling how the glass shattered around her, and how the rats scurried over the crossbeams.

PUPILS FROM 14 STATES AMONG 56 JOHN SIMPSON NEWCOMERS

Elementary and Junior high schools in 14 states are represented among the 56 students who entered John Simpson Junior high school this fall from outside of Mansfield.

Of the 56 new students, 38 were transferred from Ohio schools, and 18 from schools in other states, H. J. Dotson, principal, said.

Coming the greatest distance are three students from Florida, and one from Duluth, Minn.

New pupils from out of the state are Frederick Clark, Tampa, Fla.; Jushin Seiler, West Palm Beach, Fla.; Donald Long, Florida; Donald Beamer, Duluth, Minn.; Betty Singleton, Stanford, Ky.; Paul Kissell, Flint, Mich.; James Ashcroft, Fairmont, W. Va.; Clarity Coleman, Hagerstown, Md.; Dorothy Haag, Huston, Tex.; Thomas Earhart, Hillsdale, Mich.; Joseph Brumfield, Chicago; Mortin Green, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Eleanor Baker, Detroit; James Edwards, Springfield, Mass.; Erlene Morris, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Leroy Anderson, Oil City, Pa.; Betty Anderson, Venango county, Pa.; and Ruth Blumenschein, Phoenix, Ariz.

The new Ohio students enrolled were transferred from schools in 38 towns, cities and township schools. Among the Ohio communities represented are Cleveland, Columbus, Mt. Gilead, Shelby, Crestline, Wooster, Akron and Lexington. Six of the Ohio students entered from Bellville schools, and six from Madison high and elementary schools.

Enrollment at the school today reached 1,357, Dotson said, an increase of 49 over the same period last year.

NO SHAVES HERE

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Tiny Alpine county, high in the Sierra near the Nevada line, is a poor place to get a shave, the state board of examiners disclosed. Not a single barber shop is operated in the little mountain county where only 210 voters are registered.

REGISTRATION IN CITY REOPENED

Electors Have Until Oct. 10 to Qualify For Fall Election.

Registration of Mansfield voters for the Nov. 8 election had been resumed today after a brief "time-out" for the special school bond election.

In view of the flood of registrations received before the election last Tuesday, board of election officials expected a light registration before the deadline Oct. 10.

New registrations and transfers will be handled at the elections office in the courthouse basement from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily except Saturday and Sunday. The office closes at noon on Saturday.

JIM BROWN'S HAS BIRTHDAY

Mansfield Store of Farm and Home Supply Firm Marks First Anniversary.

The Jim Brown store, 70 North Foster street, is observing the first anniversary of the opening of its Mansfield store, David F. Lapine, manager, said today.

Operated by the Brown Fence and Wire company of Cleveland which has been in business for nearly 50 years, the Mansfield unit is a complete department store in farm and home supplies.

The company first produced only fencing. Later metal roofing was added, and today the firm offers a complete line of house, barn and roof paints, asphalt roofing, and shingles, baby chicks and poultry supplies, shoes, shirts, overalls, radios, steel pipe, tarpaulin, farm equipment and a wide variety of household equipment and wearing apparel.

The firm has specialized in the manufacturing of fencing of all kinds, making over 200 styles. Its three factories are located at Adrian, Mich., Memphis, Tenn., and Cleveland. Its roofing plant is in Parkersburg, W. Va.

The Mansfield store has three floors of a diversified merchandise with ample parking space at the side of the building.

ODD PAYMENT

Three Freshly Killed Chickens Pay Auto Rental.

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Chickens came pretty high for a Portland Drive-Your-Own car garage. An automobile which had been rented, and on which $25 was due, was returned to the garage with only three freshly-killed chickens for payment.

70 METEORITES FOUND IN HUNT

Smithsonian Institute Now Owns Half of Those Known to Have Been Found.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The Smithsonian Institution added 70 meteorites to its collection during the past year and now owns more than half of the meteorites known to have struck the earth, it has announced.

Meteorites added to the institution's collection last year ranged in weight from a few grams to almost 90 pounds. Approximately 55 per cent of the "shooting stars" were from foreign countries, although the stones recovered in the United States outweighed the imported ones.

The institution said it was seeking additional meteorites and would "reward the finders."

"A rule-of-thumb way of suspecting a peculiar stone to be a meteorite is by noting its weight," the institution said. "Meteorites are all very heavy for their size, and much heavier than the average rock on this earth, the reason being that they sometimes consist of an alloy of iron and nickel. When the stony meteorites are found they consist largely of heavy magnesium silicates and usually contain inclusions of the iron and nickel alloy. The iron alloy is attracted to a magnet or will influence a compass."

The institution said meteorites are rather difficult to find because "only a few of the shooting stars entering this atmosphere ever survive the flight.

"They are streamlined to extinction by the increasing friction of the atmosphere on their mad flight to earth," the report said. "The air acts as a brake and greatly reduces the speed.

GOOD SAMARITAN SUFFERS

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—Acting as good Samaritan to a fellow motorist proved costly for Leon Sywulak, 19. Sywulak was carrying a can of gasoline to a stalled motorist when he stopped suddenly. The gasoline spilled over the hot exhaust pipe and exploded.

County Grand Jury Faces Heaviest Docket In Months

25 INVOLVED IN CASES UP FOR HEARING

Session Opening Wednesday Expected To Take 3 Days; Variety of Charges.

Faced with one of the heaviest dockets in many months, the Richland county grand jury will convene Wednesday morning to hear charges against at least 25 persons in a session that may last three days.

The jurors, who will meet for the first time in the September court term, will consider 12 separate charges and investigate a traffic accident in which two small boys were injured.

County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott said the September docket presented the largest variety of cases a county jury has had to consider in some time.

The charges include forgery, larceny, breaking and entering, embezzlement, issuing checks with insufficient funds, non-support, receiving stolen property, assault and battery, a statutory offense, removing railroad property, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and obtaining property under false pretenses.

Cases Set for Hearing.

Cases which had been set for hearing involve the following persons:

Jewell Harper and Guy Harris, operating motor vehicle without the owner's consent; Charles O. Collins and Clayton McConkey, issuing checks with insufficient funds; Earl Smith, Christ Chokreff, Daniel Inscore, David Amato, James Baker, and Clayton Baldwin, receiving stolen property; Harry Hatfield, statutory offense; Robert Hood, Ben Grubb, Charles Brooks, and Joe Brazinski, breaking and entering; Willard Sharpless, assault and battery; Donald Blackledge, embezzlement, Emmett Heuberger, non-support; Love Jacobs, larceny; Lindsay Schaefer, removing railroad property; Frank Darling, forgery, and Edwin Schmidt, obtaining property under false pretenses.

Marriott said the jury also would be asked to investigate the injury of Lester and Paul Baker, brothers, who were struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Walter F. Howell, Mansfield. The accident occurred two weeks ago near the boys' home on the Millsborough road after Mrs. Howell allegedly drove past a standing school bus. The boys are still in the Mansfield General hospital.

Hobby Displays Fill Windows of Stores Next Week

Mansfield store windows will be filled with relics, curios, stamp, autograph and coin collections and handicraft articles next week as the Retail Merchants association's hobby show gets under way.

Entries of prospective exhibitors must be filed at Retail Merchants headquarters on the fifth floor of the Farmers bank building not later than Friday night to make the exhibitor eligible for a prize.

The hobby show will open Monday night, and entries will be judged next Thursday night by a committee from the Marion Hobby club. Prizes will be awarded the following day.

The hobby displays will be included in six classifications. First place winners in each division will receive a cash prize, and others will get blue ribbons. Entries will be placed in these groups:

(1) Relics and curior; (2) miniatures and dolls; (3) coins, medals, books and autographs; (4) stamps and first day covers; (5) woodworking and handicraft; (6) miscellaneous, including sea shells, natural history, match labels, buttons, and other unusual collections.

The exhibits will be shown in approximately 50 store windows in the downtown area.

ELECTED TO CLUB

2 Mansfielders Members of Ashland College Dramatic Group.

Two Mansfield students attending Ashland college, have been elected to membership in the Footlighters club, the college dramatic organization.

They are Miss Esther Jenkins and Fred Haag and are among 35 new members of the club. Other new members include Howard Phillips, Nova, Betty Klooz, Sullivan; Betty Markley and David Sigler, Hayesville; Mary Jane Lewis, Nankin, and Neal Welch Polk. Seventeen of the members are from Ashland.

Up and Down THE STREET

Another sign of the approaching winter—a notice posted in the desk room at police headquarters by Police Chief Meade K. Bates which orders all officers to don winter garb on Oct. 1. This includes coats, breeches and puttees.

When a huge box was delivered to County Clerk of Courts Fred R. Zellner at the courthouse yesterday, the genial clerk suspected there was "dirty work" afoot, and when he read the note inside the box, he was sure of it. For in the package was a gift from his "brothers" in the Loyal Order of Squirrels, and the gift was a dilapidated saddle of ancient vintage. With it was a suggestion that Zellner take up riding to reduce his figure, which, the note said, "is getting heavy of late." The message was signed by the "Black Squirrel," high official in the Order of Squirrels, which is patterned after the Mystic Knights of the Sea of Amos 'n' Andy fame.

"Swing" is not only influencing the music trend, but also the styles. This is evident at Mansfield high school this year, particularly at the football games. The "Jitter" jackets, as they are called, are the new craze. The jackets are white coats adorned with ornaments ranging from horse blanket pins, badges of every size and description to pen and ink sketches of comic characters.

Ninth grade students at John Simpson Junior high school who are attending morning classes only because of the half-day schedule now in force at the school, are returning in the afternoon and on their own volition. It's all because they want to carry on some of their extra-curricular activities which they would otherwise have to do away with. Some come back for glee club and choir rehearsals, and others return to assist in writing for the school paper, "The John Simpson Times," so it can be published at its regular time.

FREE SIX HOURS

Two O. S. R. Trusties Caught by Loudonville Marshal.

Freedom was short-lived for two trusties at the Mansfield reformatory yesterday. Less than six hours after they deserted their work and walked off the institution farm, the inmates were captured in Loudonville.

They were taken into custody by Marshal Robert Schnittke of Loudonville early last night while a posse of reformatory guards scoured the countryside. They were returned to their cells today.

Supt. Arthur Glattke said the inmates were Robert Jeffries, 18, received at the institution March 2, 1938, from Hamilton county to serve from one to 15 years on a burglary charge, and Joseph Gartin, 19, received from Franklin county Oct. 1, 1935, to serve until of age on a charge of auto theft.

Two years additional time will be imposed on their sentences as penalty for their escape.

WILLARD TO SEE SAWYER SEPT. 29

Democratic Candidates To Appear At Huron Rally.

WILLARD — Charles Sawyer, Democratic gubernatorial candidate and other state nominees will attend a Huron county rally here next Thursday, Sept. 29, in the First M. E. church.

Announcement that Sawyer had accepted the invitation was made by Mayor E. L. Wolf, head of the Sawyer-Bulkley-Feisinger club, which is sponsoring the rally, expected to be one of the biggest of the campaign in this county.

Mayor Wolf is naming committees to arrange details of the rally.

DINE TOMORROW

Two Church Groups to Honor Minister of Music Friday.

The music committee and senior choir of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a covered dish supper at 6 p. m. Friday at the church, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. Frank. Frank is minister of music at the church. Following the supper the regular choir rehearsal will be held.

Arrangements for the supper are in charge of Edna May Boswell, and Mrs Sherman Skaggs. Mrs. Glen Rodey is choir chairman, and Miss Bertha Patterson is music committee chairman.

ATTACK STORY OF CONN DEATH

Defense Attorneys Seek to Break Down Description of Bullet Fire.

(By International News Service)

CADIZ — Defense attorneys hammered away at Charles Ford, 20-year-old colored Pittsburgher, today in an effort to break down his testimony that Bernard Masulla was the trigger man in the slaying of Highway Patrolman George Conn and that Peter Serino also fired at the officer.

Ford, one of the state's star witnesses in the trial of Serino for the killing of Conn, identified a drapery which covered the slain officer's body as one obtained in Huntington, W. Va., and told a jury of ten men and two women that he was present when Conn fell in a hail of bullets.

Serino is the first of four men indicted for the killing, to stand trial. Ford, Masulla and Booker Johnson, also colored, also are under indictment in the case.

Ford declared that Serino fired at the officer and added "I don't know if he hit him."

He held doggedly to his story as Defense Attorney J. I. Simon struck at what he said were discrepancies in Ford's story as told at the time of his arrest and at the trial.

"I'm telling the truth now," Ford protested as Simon accused him of lying.

G. M. PHILLIPS, 80, TAKEN BY DEATH

PLANE CRASH ENDS CAREER OF CHIEF OF U. S. ARMY AIR CORPS

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES—The brilliant career of Major General Oscar Westover, 55, chief of the United States army air corps, was at an end today.

Here to play an important part in the American Legion convention, Gen. Westover lost his life yesterday afternoon when the plane in which he was returning from March field crashed while making a landing at the Lockheed Aircraft corporation's field at Burbank.

Also killed in the crash was Sergeant Sam Hynes, aide to General Westover for the past three years.

General Westover and Hynes were virtually cremated, the plane bursting into flame as soon as it struck the ground.

General Westover was en route to Burbank to inspect a number of war department transport planes before continuing on to Los Angeles to resume his activities in the Legion convention.

As the plane suddenly slipped and spun downward from a 200-foot altitude, a half mile from the landing field, it struck the ground in the front yard of Dale Ebersfold's home, missing by 20 feet Mrs. Helen Parker, who was climing into her car with her daughter.

MAJ. GEN. OSCAR WESTOVER

Flaming gasoline sprayed both Parker and Ebersfold homes and the Parker car, setting fire to them. Mrs. Parker and her daughter fled to safety.

Whether Westover or his aide had the controls as the fast attack plane nosed down over the landing field could not be learned.

Witnesses, however, gave details that indicated the crash probably came through an error in judging approach to the airport.

HURT WHEN CAR SKIDS

WILLARD—Charles McLaughlin, employe of the Municipal Water and Power company here, was injured yesterday when his automobile skidded off Route 224 and turned over. He was taken to Municipal hospital, suffering from a concussion and cuts. His condition was reported to be "satisfactory" today. McLaughlin was driving to Willard from his home in Greenwich when the accident occurred.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

AUDITOR SAYS EVERY DIVISION MUST BE PARED

Bases Prediction on Slashed Budget; Contends It's Blow to Improvement Plans.

Operations in practically every department of the Mansfield city government will have to be curtailed in 1939, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley predicted today after an examination of available funds for the year.

He based his prediction on the county budget commissions' allocation of tax money for the city's operating fund which is $247,440 or $347 more than was appropriated in 1937. The commission ordered the city to trim $55,000 from its budget requests.

"Drastic curtailment will have to be made in 1939 operating expenditures which are paid from tax funds," Kelley said.

He pointed out that it would be a blow to anticipated improvements inasmuch as the city's bond issuing authority would be limited.

Tax Rate Trimmed.

The budget commission also cut the city tax rate for 1939 to $15 per $1,000 of valuation, which is one of the lowest in Richland county. The present rate is $15.40 per thousand.

At least five other communities in the county have tax rates above Mansfield. They are Shiloh with a rate of $18.60, Lucas with $16, Butler with $15.60, and Lexington with $22.40. Bellville has not been set but had a $20 rate last year.

Kelley pointed out, however, that the city would not have to meet $21,840 in fire and police pensions which are now paid from a direct levy of real estate property.

The auditor estimated 1938 operating costs would hit $250,000 and that 1939 expenditures would equal that amount or more.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Sudetens Are Traitors, But Escape Torture That Hitler Gives His Enemies

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Nobody will deny that the Sudeten Nazis are traitor to Czechoslovakia and members of an international conspiracy against the state in which they live. They proclaim that.

Adolf Hitler complains that they have been persecuted.

But if the Czechoslovakian government had treated them according to Hitler's own way with those whom he has classed as traitors and international conspirators their status would be about as follows:

All Sudeten Nazis would be officially classified as beasts.

This includes not only the Nazis but all other Sudeten Germans, even a large number who are bitterly opposed to Naziism and loyal to Czechoslovakia. It includes all Sudeten Germans who fought for Czechoslovakia's independence and those who were blinded or crippled in the struggle. It includes the widows, parents and children of Sudeten Germans who were killed fighting for Czechoslovakia.

All Sudeten Germans, without exception, would be officially classified as members of a low and treacherous breed of international conspirators, in league with Nazi Germany to open the gates of Czechoslovakia to the national enemy, Adolf Hitler

A Sudeten German would be anyone either of whose grandparents was a German. All would be barred from the public schools and colleges, from the law, medicine and the teaching profession, from public office and from all public employment.

All Czechoslovakians would be forbidden to marry Sudeten Germans as this would defile the racial purity of a noble people with the corrupt blood of a loathsome race.

No Sudeten German would be permitted to employ a Czechoslovakian housemaid below the age of 45 on the ground of a propensity of these people to defile the racial purity of Czechoslovakia. Sudeten German physicians would be forbidden to attend Czechoslovakian women lest they violate them while they were unconscious from drugs or anesthetics.

Sudeten Germans leaving the country would be required to leave behind, in the form of taxes, 95 per cent of the value of all their possessions. Those attempting to transfer or smuggle money, jewelry, securities or credits out of Czechoslovakia, preparatory to emigration, would be placed in concentration camps. There they would be beaten with dog whips, starved, spat upon by race-pure guards of the highest culture and forced to clean latrines with their hands.

All Sudeten Germans would be required to wear yellow badges and forbidden to enter the social life of any community. All race-pure Czechoslovakians would be forbidden to maintain personal friendship for any of them, to patronize any store or business of any Sudeten German and to give employment to any such treacherous member of a traitor race.

There would be frequent public broadcasts, amplified by loudspeakers, in public places, describing Sudeten Germans as beasts, monsters, animals, pigs, dogs, reptiles and cockroaches. Race-pure Czechoslovakians would mark upon the dwellings and business houses of Sudeten Germans such legends as "Sudeten German swine" and "Die, filthy Sudeten German!"

The foregoing is a literal paraphrase of Hitler's way of dealing with those who are, by his decree, traitors to Germany, including men blinded and crippled fighting for Germany and the families of men killed fighting for Germany.

There can be no question that all Sudeten Nazis are traitors to Czechoslovakia. That they have not been treated in strict accordance with Hitler's own formula may be due to the weakness of a degenerate, democratic thing, without culture or race, calling itself the republic of Czechoslovakia.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This new hair-do the gals are supposed to be wearing is something a male who is extremely mere will have to get used to in small doses.

The first time I saw one—on a studio secretary, not a star—I thought it was a mistake. The lady obviously had been called from the tub in a hurry, and had forgotten to take the pins out and let the locks down before she came to work. But it wasn't a mistake at all. It was, I was informed disdainfully, the 'latest thing."

It's comforting, however, to learn that Norma Shearer, who is wearing a bob, shares that reaction. Norma called it the "bathtub style of hairdress" and said she'd have none of it.

Of course you can trace this thing back to pictures. At least the various picture studios can. Paramount would have you believe that Claudette Colbert, with that show-the-ears, pile-up-the-ringlets coiffure for "Zara," was the pace setter Warner Bros. are sure that if Bette Davis and Anita Louise in "The Sisters" hadn't done it, nobody would be bothered now. Universal puts the credit or blame on Danielle Darrieux and I think they have a right to—"The Rage of Paris" was on the screens before Colbert or Davis pulled up the loose ends

THERE'S a bit of a division, too, in the make-up clan of Westmores about the latest tonsorial crisis. Perc (out at Warner's) says it's a move on the part of the beauty parlors to sell more permanents. Perc, with the House of Westmore selling permanents like all the rest, would seem to be cutting his own throat but that's how it is. Wally Westmore (at Paramount) is strong for "Zaza" and her pull-it-up mode. So apparently, is Claudette. She's been wearing it around, evenings

The Warners aren't letting their stars or starlets go for the new mode, for daytime wear at least and in pictures. For evening—well, the gals have been pushing it up, with flowers stuck here and there, for some years now. I'll never forget the first time I saw Claire Trevor done that way, with what looked like a daffodil bed transplanted among the curls.

Perc Westmore is afraid the hair-up notion isn't practical unless it's achieved with some cutting-in-the-back and some permanent-waving—those loose neckline strands trimmed, and the top hair waved.

The page-boy bob—comb it and brush it out and there you are!—was the thing that put the crimp in the beauty emporia. The sale of "permanents" fell off something awful while the gals discovered that the straight, short, boyish bob could hide a multitude of defects. Time-saver, too. Why, in a pinch a girl could skip washing neck and ears, although naturally none ever did THAT

DERC WESTMORE is sure that husbands and men in general are going to revolt against any feminine hairdress that keeps tumbling down in strings at the neck, and that women are going to tire of how they look after the first hour's washing and ironing and cooking—three feminine pursuits guaranteed to wreck one of the pretty pile-ups.

(Mrs. Westmore—Gloria Dickson in the movies—at last reports was still wearing a page-boy bob.)

Meanwhile, Garbo's due back to do those pictures. Garbo, remember, started quite a fad in the coiffure line herself—that very long bob long since christened "the Garbo" In recent films she has forsaken it, however, which permits M-G-M to blame it all on Garbo—hair-up in "Conquest."

Boyfriends Problem of Two Girls

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax: I have a very attractive younger sister, and every time I get a new boy friend, she just has to stroll into the room and my boy friend falls for her, and can't see me for dust. This is rather discouraging. I am very fond of my sister, but she can't seem to help it. What can I do to avoid this the next time I get a "steady"? I'm 18 and she's only 15 years old. JANET.

It looks to me, my dear Janet, as if your sister has "It." You say she can't help it—well, neither can you nor the boys when they flock around her. You have my deep sympathy, but as far as I can see there's only one remedy for such a situation. When little sister marries, the coast will be clear for you. That type of girl is apt to marry young.

Meanwhile, you and your sister might arrange to entertain your boy friends together. It will be good training in unselfishness for both of you, and it is wise for young girls to know as many boys as possible, in order to be able to make wise choice when making a permanent decision.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I'm 17 years old and have been going "steady" with a boy the same age as I am for two years. I get many chances to go out, as other boys are always asking me, but I turn them down, as I prefer to stay at home with this one boy. However, lately I've been wondering whether I'm wise in doing this. He's still in school, and tells me when he gets a steady job in February, after graduating (he has one in mind), he's going to take me every place.

Do you think I ought to wait around for this, or shall I go out with other boys too? I do like a little variety, and am getting rather tired of sitting at home or going to a show, which we do about once a week. SEVENTEEN.

I think it's a pretty good idea to go out with some of those other boys who ask you. You're still very young to stick to just one boy. Why not accept invitations from the others, and tell your boy friend to do the same, because you want to be sure you love him well enough, before you give up these others.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

LILLIAN GAVE a dry chuckle, inaudible to anyone save me, as the Princess Olina laid her hand upon Noel's arm and asked him if it were not marvelous to be "marooned like this?"

"She sure has that lad on the spot," she muttered. "It's up to the shock troops to go into action. Get him away on the pretense of showing him his room, give him the lowdown, and I'll double for lady-in-waiting to royalty the while."

I wasted no time in preliminaries, but crossed directly to Noel, and put my hand on his other arm with an air of housewifely and "in-law" authority.

Uses Mary's Name.

"Come, nephew mine!" I said. "Let me show you where you are to hang your hat. And then you must have something to eat. We let your father get away without it, because it really was necessary to speed his departure, but I'm responsible to Mary for you, and she never would forgive me, if I didn't make you comfortable."

I had dragged in the name of his young wife with malice aforethought. I was maliciously pleased when I saw her drop her hand from Noel's arm as if the touch of his coat sleeve burned her. All the while her eyes mirrowed displeased chagrin, though her face was unruffled.

"Your auntie's right," she said pleasantly. "You must be a good little boy and go along with her. And I must go back to my mother. But tomorrow is another day. We surely will have a 'go' at the music. Isn't that the way you Americans would say it?"

"Yes, that is one way to say it," he replied. "You are learning American fast. You will be a regular Yankee before you know it. And now, if you will pardon me, I mustn't keep Aunt Madge waiting."

His manner was perfection, I told myself with a thrill of partisan triumph for my husband's absent niece. And I thrilled still more when Noel stopped in the hall as soon as Olina had flitted up the stairs ahead of us, and waiting only for the sound of her closing door, uttered his wife's name tensely.

Inquires of Mary.

"Mary!" he said. "How is she? I didn't have a chance to ask you down there, but I just can't wait any longer."

"She's perfectly all right," I told him quickly, "but I don't want to talk about her in the hall here. Wait till we get to your room. Follow me."

"Your Uncle Dicky usually uses this," I said, "but he's going back to the city later tonight, or rather this morning, and it will do splendidly for you while you are here. He probably will not be back again until after this mess is all cleaned up."

"It's far too good for me," Noel said, "but—please—will you tell me now about Mary?"

I gave him a quick look.

"Why don't you go to the city and find out for yourself?" I asked.

Excuses Won't Take Off Pounds

By MME. QUI VIVE

Heavyweights are the alibi girls. They say they eat nothing at all. Maybe so. Yet they are getting more fuel than the body needs and it is stored up in the form of fat. Unless poundage is due to some glandular disturbance it is produced by groceries that create adipose tissue.

Women who have acquired the cream-puff shape are those who love rich foods, and rich foods are precisely and exactly what they should not have. They are the world's champion cakeeaters. They crave candy. They indulge themselves. The slim figure will be restored to them if they will be determined not to fall off the diet wagon. That's the rub. Easy enough to form a reducing plan. More difficult than all get out to stick to it.

Oh, Calories.

Let every candidate for reediness remember that a tablespoonfull of butter amounts to 100 calories. They can have a breakfast of grapefruit, one slice of unbuttered toast, a cupful of coffee with no cream but one teaspoon of sugar. All that will count up to less than 200 calories. The trick is to have a maintenance diet with nothing left over to stow away.

She who is reducing will need lean meat once a day, can have an egg for breakfast. Fruits and green salads are her good friends. She can gorge on lettuce, endive, tomatoes, cucumbers, carrots. Asparagus is good for her little insides; ten stalks total only 50 calories. Brussels sprouts, string beans, spinach, cabbage, cauliflower, celery she can eat to her heart's content. Cottage cheese and buttermilk are highly recommended for curve deletion.

She must avoid rich sauces, pastries, whipped cream desserts. Potatoes have been maligned, they are mainly water; a fair-sized one contains 100 calories. Olive oil is a busy fat builder, so substitute mineral oil when making a salad dressing. Use lemon juice instead of vinegar; the result will be more appetizing.

Don't Be Violent.

There's no need of going in for violent, heart-breaking exercises; in fact, they are not advisable if the intake of food has been greatly reduced. Take a walk every day or do bending and twisting movements if the bulge is amidship.

If that gnawing feeling comes on between meals and you can't endure it eat an apple or drink a glass of milk. Milk supplies almost all the food elements that the body needs, does not contain enough fat to add to one's measurements.

Be content to lose three or four pounds a week. If you delete more than that the tissues of the face will soften. Then you're in for a terrible kettle of fish.

Oven Dishes Back On Fall Menus

By ALICE LYNN BARRY.

TURN TO your oven again, now that summer is waning, and let it turn out good things for you! The trusty broiler, the sturdy stewpan are good friends and deserve a vacation while your oven takes its turn—doing things to the proverbial turn! The boon of oven cookery is that it need not be watched and hovered over. Automatic regulating devices have removed much of the risk; improved insulation has accounted for great improvement in our kitchen ranges. Then, too, many of the less expensive food items, such as economical cuts of meat, are quite satisfactory after being given over to the oven treatment. Puddings, roasts and casserole dishes are our favorite baked foods. So—out with the bean pot, the baking dishes and casseroles. Let's have a good old-fashioned baking day as soon as the weather cools!

Rice and Liver.

Casserole of rice and liver is an excellent way of serving liver, since one pound yields eight servings. Ingredients include one cup rice, two quarts water two tablespoons butter, one pound lamb or calf liver one tablespoon carmel, two tablespoons each browned flour and bread crumbs, salt and pepper and two cups stock. Wash rice well. Boil rice in the water. Drain and mash smooth with butter and pepper to taste. Line a well-greased casserole with the mixture, pressing the paste firmly against bottom and sides, but leaving a large hollow in the center. Set in a cold place until firm. Meanwhile, boil the liver, drain, chop fine and season with salt. Heat the soup stock, seasoned with caramel. Make a brown sauce with the fat, browned flour and soup stock, and add the minced liver. Fill the hollow in the center of the rice with the liver mixtures, sprinkle with crumbs and brown in 400 F. oven.

Brazil nut stuffing is something different for a poultry stuffing, the sort of thing that is nice to serve for a company dinner. Ingredients include a teaspoon minced onion, tablespoon butter, one cup fine dry bread crumbs, one-half cup ground Brazil nuts, one-half teaspoon salt, cayenne, three-quarters cup evaporated milk, enough for a small bird. Cook onion slowly in butter five minutes. Add bread crumbs, Brazil nuts, salt and a dash of cayenne. Soften with the milk.

Did you ever serve baked beans in green peppers? It's a grand idea. It will take about thirty minutes for the stuffed peppers to bake. Serve them with a fresh salad, hot bread, beverage and simple dessert, and you have a mighty good luncheon or supper.

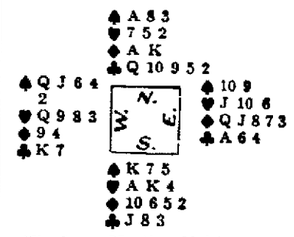
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOSE THE FIRST TRICK

EVEN WHEN you have both the ace and king of the suit led, your no trump game contract may depend upon allowing the defenders to win the very first trick. Offhand it would seem to make no difference whether you use the holdup on the second trick, winning the first and third, or on the first one, winning the next two. On occasional hands, though, it means the difference between blocking the foes' suit and letting them run it.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable).

The bidding on this deal was started by North with 1-Club, South responded with 1-No Trump, which North raised to 2-No Trump, and South went to 3-No Trump.

The spade 4 was led by West and South figured that with two stoppers in the suit it did not matter whether he won the first trick or held up until the second. He went right in with the A and led a club. East won and returned the spade 10 and when South did not cover with the K, West did with his J to play a third spade. Then when South attempted to drive out the high club, West cashed his remaining two spades.

A different situation results if South refuses the first spade trick. Then when he tries the clubs, if East wins he is unable to lead another spade and if West takes the first club trick, his suit has not yet been cleared.

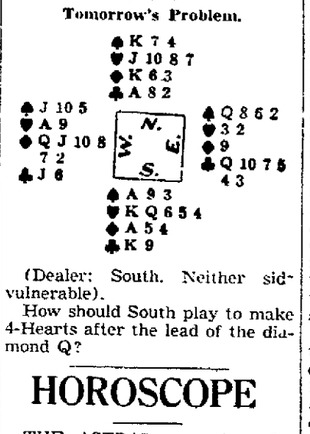
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

How should South play to make 4-Hearts after the lead of the diamond Q?

Canape Note

For a different canape to serve with cocktails try this: Make biscuits about an inch in diameter. Just before you bake them stick in halves of small sardines, with the edges showing. Bake them—and you'll have a delicious hot tidbit.

HOROSCOPE

THE ASTRAL operations for this day seem to point to rather perplexing or conflicting situations, with much of importance transpiring. They may result in promotion, expansion and generally gratifying personal, professional or business experiences. However, there may be a death, bereavement or illness to cope with, and there may be need of free expenditures or extravagances, possibly in connection with a secrett obligation or indulgence. There may be some curious or subtle situations to intrigue or baffle.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which there may be some confusing, intriguing or perplexing situations to deal with. There are omens of bereavement, sudden change, peculiar or mysterious conditions, as well as change, personal outlay and some sort of institutional contact to be managed with tact, wisdom and good grace as well as precaution.

A child born on this day may have many traits of a subtle or secretive character, probably due to a mystical, sensative or subtle nature. However, it may have ambitions and social inclinations of a quiet order.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

IT WAS grand to get to the shop again and see the "gang." The big salon and the fur department have been done over, and the whole place looks very smart. Madame looks fine; she and Howard seem to be very happy. True to her promise to him, she isn't spending so much time at the place. I'm glad of that, for it isn't necessary.

Madame was so pleased to see me. We had lunch together the day I arrived home, and she was very pleased at the work I had done in Europe. She had a wonderful time in Alaska. Helen and Igor will be home next week, and I am anxious to see them. I haven't heard a word from Bill. I am going to call his office at the end of the week and find out if he is here.

The girls were so glad to see me, and, up to now, I've done nothing but gossip. They were all pleased to hear that Eileen is coming over for the World's fair next spring. It will be a busy time for us, for Madame is going to put on some big fashion shows at both fairs.

In the meantime, we have plenty to do at the shop. Some of my customers are back already, and by next week I'll be in the thick of things again. We have enlarged our accessory departments so that shoes, gloves, bags, costume jewelry, scarves and hats are all within easy reach. And we have added some big rooms so that customers can select their accessories in comfort without hopping from one department to the other.

The new costume jewelry is particularly handsome. The upped hair-do is responsible for pendant earrings. I'm glad that I went ahead and bought so much costume jewelry when I was abroad. As it looks now, we'll even have to order more. Eileen had heard of a famous collection being sold, and she went ahead and bought it. Consequently, we have a marvelous stock of pieces that are original purple satin evening gown and cannot be duplicated. I love some of the old chatelaines and the beautiful cameos set in pearls, and I hope I'll be lucky enough to get something for my new evening frock.

And here's the new evening frock, the most daring gown I've ever had, and it is the reason for my reducing program, too. The onesided decollete is caught up on one shoulder with a bunch of crystal grapes with gold leaves. The border on the tunic is caught up on one side and is encrusted into a circular movement.
